Labor Act Scored As 'Big Business'

VLC Secretary Charges New Regulations Will Smash Wage Structure of Workers

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dismissal of the Labor Relations Board and proclamation of the new labor act Wednesday have stirred up a hornet's nest among B.C. labor leaders.

Vic Forster, secretary of the Vancouver Labor Council (CCL), charged that the new act is "the preparation of big business to smash the wage structure of the working people."

He accused Premier Bennett of being a "front man for the combines and multi-million-dollar trusts." Mr. Forster also complained that labor has not been consulted in selecting representatives for a new board.

Tom Alsbury, president of the Vancouver Trades and Labor Council, echoed the query about board replacements. He said firing of the board "at the whim of the minister" will "make men hesitant about accepting the $20-a-day job."

Mr. Alsbury warned that the new labor act is "going to make it very difficult for labor to carry on its legitimate activities legally."

A threat that the "unfair features of the bill will be cir-

First Woman Is Appointed

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks today appointed a new five-member labor relations board which will be headed by Deputy Labor Minister W. H. Sands.

The new board will take up its duties immediately to replace a board which was dismissed Wednesday with the proclamation of the Labor Relations Act.

For the first time in Canadian history a woman will be a member of such a board. She is Mrs. Fraudena Eaton of Deep Cove, near Vancouver.

The other members are: H. J. Young, G. A. Little and Charles Murdoch, all of Vancouver.

All five are also on the Board of Industrial Relations, which administers the Hours of Work Act, the Male and Female Minimum Wage Act and other B.C. labor legislation.

ONE BOARD
Their appointments to the Labor Relations Board will eliminate duplication, as there will be only one board instead of two as previously.

Former members of the Labor Relations Board were D'Arcy Baldwin, C. A. F. Murrison, Fred Smeltz, George Home and Jim Barton.

ONE LABOR MAN

The former board was made up of two management representatives, two labor representatives and Mr. Baldwin, the chairman. Only one labor representative, Charles Murdoch, is on the new board.

He is vice-president of Division 101, Street Railwaymen's Union, and a delegate to the Vancouver Trades and Labor Council. Mr. Murdoch was appointed to the Board of Industrial Relations in December, 1953.

ACTIVE WOMAN

Mrs. Eaton has been active in women's organizations for many years and is vice-president, National Council of Women, past president, Provincial Council of Women, vice-president, United Nations Association in Canada, and the Canadian Association of Adult Education. Recently she received the Garnet Sedgewick Memorial Award for outstanding contributions to civil liberty.

Mr. Young is former president of Vulcan Iron Works Ltd., and is past president of the Pacific Northwest Conference of Executive Associations. Mr. Little, educated at Nanaimo, is a career civil servant who currently is regional supervisor, mainland offices of the Department of Labor. He has been a member of the Board of Industrial Relations since 1951.

Non-Committal

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (Reuters)—Prime Minister Sidney Holland of New Zealand said today he could give no indication whether he and Australia's Prime Minister Robert Menzies will go to Washington for talks with President Eisenhower and Sir Winston Churchill next week.

LONDON (Reuters)—A British Labor party delegation headed by party leader Clement Attlee and including left-winger Aneurin Bevan will spend about two hours in Moscow on its way to Communist China in August, it was announced today.

Entire Viet Minh Division Infiltrates Delta Area

HANOI, Indo-China (UP)—The French high command reported today that an entire division of 8,000 to 10,000 Communist Viet Minh regular troops has infiltrated the heart of the Red River Delta area.

The high command said the combat-hardened regulars had filtered into the rice-field region in the Ninth Binh-Nam Dinh area—some 50 miles south of Hanoi.

These troops now are added to the estimated 100,000-man fifth column of regulars and guerrillas which Red Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap has working for him in the delta.

Garbage Disposal Critical Problem

Most critical problem posed by strike of outside workers is garbage disposal. If strike drags on, householders fear they'll be faced with knotty problem illustrated above by restaurant owner

Fred McBratney. Today garbage trucks were idle, scows empty. Other stories, pictures on strike situation on Pages 2, 15, 21 of this issue. (Times Photo by Halkett.)

'Burn Your Garbage' City Official Urges

Strike Stops Collection of Refuse From Homes, Hospitals, Restaurants

Victoria City strike paralyzed the garbage collection system at 8 a.m. today and immediately posed a serious problem for restaurants and householders who are dependent on regular collections to dispose of their refuse.

The problem, however, was not serious for the larger institutions, like hospitals and department stores, which have devised ways of disposing their garbage.

Garbage collection in Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt will continue as usual as they are not affected by the city strike.

Restaurant owners said a prolonged strike of over a week would result in a serious garbage problem.

While a large part of their garbage, such as left-over foods and edible material, was collected by pig raisers as food for their animals, they said, there still was considerable garbage which had to be disposed of in the normal manner.

PILE-UP WITHIN WEEK
"In a week's time, things will begin to pile up," said one restaurant operator. "I don't know what we will be able to do."

The same problem confronted householders, but it is not quite as serious.

Cyril Jones, city engineer, said householders could eliminate a great deal of their garbage by burning all papers and burying edible material in their gardens.

The Royal Jubilee Hospital said they were attempting to make arrangements to have the Saanich garbage collector pick up their refuse for the duration of the strike.

"We don't anticipate any trouble from the union," said George Masters, hospital administrator. "I don't think they would want to take it out on the hospital."

St. Joseph's Hospital said they would cart their garbage to their farm in Saanich.

The department stores said they had means of disposing of their garbage.

Oak Bay, which uses the city's garbage disposal system, reported that it had made arrangements to dump its garbage in Esquimalt, which has its own garbage system. Esquimalt buries all its refuse.

Saanich officials reported they have their own garbage dump and will not be affected by the strike.

Strike won't affect m' Uncle Zeke's garbage can. Sez th' neighbor's dog empties it every night anyways.

Seems as though labor relations are jus' like t'other kind—allus fightin'.

Looks like th' council members gave it a new twist—burnt their bridges in front of 'em.

City May Hire Others to Keep Work Going

Council Questions Walkout Legality; Labor Minister Asked for Guidance

City Council is questioning legality of the outside civic workers' strike which started at 8 a.m. today, tying up city services.

At an emergency meeting at noon, it was decided that the whole of the council, led by the mayor, would visit Labor Minister Lyle Wicks this afternoon and ask for a ruling.

Alderman Millard Mooney raised the question.

It was thought that under the new Labor Relations Act proclaimed by the provincial cabinet Wednesday the strike of 250 workers may be illegal.

Also on Ald. Mooney's suggestion, council voted 7 to 2 in favor of the municipal manager employing "people he requires to carry on essential services of the city."

The mayor said the suggestion was "quite in order" and the vote was taken with Aldermen Robert Macmillan and Frank Mulliner dissenting.

Alderman Macmillan asked: "Are you not treading on dangerous ground so far as strike-breaking is concerned. Do you expect men to go out and cross picket lines?"

The mayor replied: "The purpose of the motion is to employ men to carry on the work of the city."

'Is There a Strike?' Mayor Asks

Earlier in the meeting the mayor asked if there really was a strike, since he had not received anything in writing.

Municipal manager Cecil Wyatt told him: "There definitely is a strike."

He said notice had been given verbally.

The mayor called for "official notification."

He said neither he or the clerk had anything in writing.

The council ratified terms of settlement with its inside staff.

Alderman Macmillan was the

Strike Vote Carries 126 to 103

The outside workers, who number 250, made their strike effective first thing this morning after voting 126 to 103 Wednesday afternoon to reject a last-minute offer from City Council to provide a five-cent-an-hour increase, half the cost of MSA coverage, a shorter work week for bridge operators with no change in pay, and a slightly higher wage adjustment for garbage truck drivers classified as "Sanivan men."

Difference between the council's offer and the terms which the union sought at the time of the strike was two cents an hour.

The union has since reverted to original demands for wage parity with Vancouver, which would mean an average increase of 19 cents an hour.

Outside workers' union notified the city last Friday that the lowest it would go would be seven cents an hour. Council rejected that on Monday, countering with an offer of a 2 per cent increase. The five-cent offer was put forward by council's representatives Wednesday morning and voted upon in the afternoon.

Inside workers, who number about 140, settled Wednesday night on a three-point proposal. They get a 2 per cent across-the-board increase, half the cost of MSA coverage, and service pay of five cents per day for every five years' service.

This is less than the conciliation board award which was brought down in April inasmuch as the board recommended a 3 per cent increase and the other two provisions.

Saanich Strike Vote Under New Act

A strike vote of Saanich municipal employees will be conducted under the Labor Relations Act which was proclaimed Wednesday, the provincial labor department said today.

The department indicated the new labor board is expected to consider the application of the Saanich municipal employees for a strike vote within the next few days.

The switch over from the ICA Act to the new Labor Relations Act means that the Saanich employees will be required to give council 48 hours' advance notice of its strike deadline.

China, U.K. Establish Normal Relationships

Churchill Announces Diplomatic Mission; First Western Power to Recognize Reds

Coming to Canada

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent today announced that Sir Winston Churchill, shown above as he was invested with the Order of the Garter, has every hope of visiting Ottawa following his trip to Washington, June 25. Although Churchill's visit to the U.S. has been described as "informal," officials in Washington have raised the possibility that he may address Congress in order to appeal for more teamwork between America and Britain.

LONDON (CP)—Communist China will shortly send her first diplomatic mission to London, Prime Minister Churchill announced today.

Churchill told the House of Commons the mission, the first since the Chinese Communists came to power in 1949, will be headed by a charge d'affaires.

The announcement also was made by Peiping radio.

The envoy in charge of Britain's mission in Peiping, Sir Humphrey Trevelyan, has been trying to arrange for the establishment of full diplomatic relations between Britain and Communist China since he took the post last year.

Britain recognized the regime of Mao Tse-tung at the beginning of 1950.

LED TO ANNOUNCEMENT

Britain initiated discussions which led to today's announcement. When the Geneva conference opened, Foreign Secretary Eden summoned Trevelyan from Peiping and took him along.

Eden personally took up the matter of diplomatic relations with Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai who is attending the Geneva conference.

Britain is the only one of the major western powers to have recognized the Chinese Communist government. Neither Canada nor the United States has taken such action.

Britain, however, has repeatedly emphasized its recognition of the Communist conquest of the Chinese mainland in no way implies approval of the Communist government or its policies.

NEW PLAN AT GENEVA

Mendes-France Promises Peace In Indo-China or Resignation

PARIS (UP)—Pierre Mendes-France, making his bid for investiture as premier of France, today promised to obtain an Indo-China cease-fire within four weeks or resign, if he is made head of the French government.

The premier-designate also promised to bring before the assembly by June the long-stalled and highly controversial European Army Plan which would rearm Germans as units of a continental defense force.

The premier-designate was given only a slim chance of approval by the national assembly.

GENEVA (UP)—France blocked an end to the Geneva peace conference today by formally proposing the establishment of a nine-nation commission to deal with the Indo-China issue.

The proposal was contained in notes sent to the delegations of the other eight nations suggested for the commission. The plan proposed that the

'ALICE-IN-WONDERLAND' DRUG 'DWARFS' USERS

LONDON (Reuters)—An "Alice-in-Wonderland" drug which makes adults feel they have shrunk back to childhood size has been tested on patients at a British mental hospital, it was revealed today.

The weird drug also can snatch an adult back through time to relive childhood events "with extraordinary clarity," the British Journal of Mental Science said in announcing the discovery.

The drug, an extract of the ergot fungus which attacks grain, is expected to prove valuable in the diagnosis and relief of mental illnesses, which often have their origin in forgotten childhood experiences.

A married woman who was given the drug said she felt as if she had been shut up like a telescope.

"I wondered if I had gone small and was not the least surprised to see my arm and hand quite little, the size of that of a child of seven or eight," she said. "I don't remember feeling a different size, but when I looked I had shrunk."

JUST for the RECORD

HI-YA, RED! In Toronto, at 22 months, Dianne Keats wasn't old enough to paint the town red.

But with her grandfather's paint brush and a large pot of glossy white paint, found on the Keats veranda, she did a very good job on Ada, her seven-month-old baby sister.

First she painted the body, then the hair, finishing with a facial. Then Dianne started on herself, but was interrupted before achieving such a complete result.

At the Hospital for Sick Children vaseline removed paint from around their eyes and today the last of it was removed from their hair by grandfather with a mixture of vaseline and alcohol.

Now he's buying another can of paint—for the veranda only.

CHARGE! In Montreal police scratched their heads today in bewilderment at what a woman will do to take advantage of a bargain sale.

Yesterday 500 women fought their way into a women's wear shop and as many more were turned away.

The press of the crowd snapped $800 worth of display windows—one measuring nine by seven feet and another nine by four feet. The glassless windows were boarded up.

COMPROMISE

Gropp 'Happy' About Inside Settlement

"A happy compromise," is the way Elwood Gropp, president of the City Hall Employees' Association, described terms of settlement Wednesday night by the city's inside staff.

"We feel it is in the interests of the employees, the council and the citizens."

Terms call for a two per cent wage increase retroactive to January 1, half the cost of MSA coverage from the present date and five cents per day service pay for each five years of service.

The association executive recommended acceptance of these terms to the membership.

READY TO QUIT?

Ald. Arthur Dowell, who was on council's bargaining committee, reported to council Thursday "The executive of the inside union told us they would resign if it were not accepted by the membership."

Mr. Gropp did not discuss this aspect today.

He did say: "Delayed negotiations are not beneficial to anyone."

"There should be some study and consideration to preventing such long negotiations in future."

The inside staff notified the city of its intention to reopen its wage contract before the end of last year. Actual dispute between the two parties stems back to last February when the staff asked for 7.8 per cent raise and the city said no, increase was warranted.

Rail Crew Takes Over At Johnson St. Bridge

E. & N. Exercises Ownership Rights To Keep Key Road Traffic Link Operating

The E & N Railway provided two men to operate Johnson Street bridge when city workmen placed picket lines at both ends of the city centre span at 7.30 this morning.

The railway is a part-owner of the bridge. Johnson Street bridge is actually two bridges—one for motor traffic and one for trains. Both sections are jointly owned by the city and the railway, however, and both are controlled from the same control house.

The E. & N. pays the city one-third the cost of maintenance and operation.

Mr. Jones said he would continue trying to find persons to work the bridge on a round-the-clock operation. He felt that failing in this, a curtailed operation could be effected. He suggested a three-hour service each morning and a two-hour service in the afternoon.

When down, the bridge has a 19-foot clearance at high tide, allowing only small vessels to pass underneath.

Ships Quit Upper Harbor

Because advance warning was given of the strike, there was a general exodus of vessels from the upper harbor regions during the night.

The bridge made eight lifts during the night. Normally there are only three or four.

The CNR's freight-car ferry, Canora, at VMD's upper-harbor yard for overhaul, was towed out to the company's outer wharf yard.

A tug went in at 4.15 a.m., and came out at 4.50 with a barge loaded with railway cars. It returned at 6.35 with the empty barge, and got out itself at 7.02. That was the last lift before the strike.

Marine Traffic Handicapped

Closure of the bridge to water traffic would be a definite hardship, according to Marine Agent Col. Keith Dixon and Harbourmaster Ronald Newell.

"This is the busiest season of the year for the lighthouse tenders, Estevan and Berens," Col. Dixon pointed out. "Both are due in this week-end for supplies. I hope the bridge is operating them."

The lighthouse tenders service aids to navigation in the southwest B.C. area, and their work would be handicapped if they could not take on supplies and equipment at their own wharf. Col. Dixon pointed out. If the bridge approach is closed, Berens will be berthed at the old Customs House jetty, Wharf Street. But no provision has been made for Estevan.

8,000 Family Doctors Get Own College

VANCOUVER (CP)—A college for Canada's 8,000 family doctors was launched today by the Canadian Medical Association.

The college, which will have its headquarters in Toronto, is designed to aid general practitioners in keeping abreast of rapid developments in the medical field and to assist and encourage maintenance of a high standard of general practice.

Patterned after the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons, it will be known as the College of General Practice.

President of the new college will be Dr. Murray Stalker, prominent general practitioner from Ormstown, Que. Dr. Victor Johnston of Toronto and Lucknow, Ont., is executive director.

The college will have no classrooms and no instructional staff, but will arrange for both undergraduate and post-graduate instruction for general practitioners at universities, hospitals and medical schools.

Dr. Johnston said in order to maintain membership in the college, family doctors would be required to complete 100 hours of post-graduate study every two years.

Red Chess Master Duped By 'Inventor' of Wall St.

By H. D. QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)—The United States and Russia squared off in combat last night. The battle lasted into the early hours today, but the only carnage was intellectual.

The squares were chess boards. The battle was the first round of a four-round match between teams of chess masters of the two countries.

The highly-favored Russians won four of the eight games. Two games were draws, and the other two were unfinished after a five-hour session. They will be completed late today.

But the playing seemed unimportant—just a side show—after what happened before the match started. Somebody is going to catch what for when the Soviet team gets back to Moscow. Because right on the stage of the Roosevelt Hotel the star Russian player, a red-head named Vassily Smyslov, stood up and shook hands with a Wall Street man.

It was a sight to make Lenin and Stalin turn over (toward the left, of course) in their tombs. For this wasn't a little bitzy measly old dirty imperial capitalist of a Wall Street man. No indeed. The man on the other end of the handshake was about as capitalistic as you can get, without actually turning into money. He was Barnard M. Baruch. Some people believe he invented Wall Street.

It must be said in Smyslov's defense that he probably didn't know what he was doing, nor why, and to whom. Baruch was introduced in English. He had been invited to a welcome by the U.S. Chess Federation, sponsor of the tournament that has brought a Russian team to America for the first time. He spoke in English. Then came the handshake.

Baruch, who coined the term "cold war," spoke warmly of chess. He said he used to be a chess player himself in his youth and thought he was pretty good until he got to playing with a mummy in a museum. "Found out," he said, "the mummy knew more about chess than I did."

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — The first strike affecting a Consolidated Mining and Smelting property in 30 years started Wednesday at the Bluebell mine in nearby Riedel.

The 260 workers, members of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Ind., seek pay increase to put them on the same basis as the Sullivan mine at Kimberley. The basic wage at Bluebell is $1.61 an hour compared with $1.79½ at Kimberley.

Victorians Hold Seventh In Yachting

MONTREAL (CP) — The Royal Yacht Club stayed out front Wednesday in the royal regatta at nearby Pointe Claire, but Norman Marcus' Royal Kennebecasis crew from St. John, N.B., sailed into second place as a result of the second day's races.

The Royal Victoria Yacht Club ended the day in seventh place after placing fourth in the afternoon.

RVYC is represented by Jorgen Baess, skipper, and Ned Ashe and Peter Young.

The Royal Kennebecasis Yacht Club moved from seventh to a fourth place tie when they sailed the Royal yacht Blue-bottle across the line first in the fourth race in the morning and led in the fifth race in the afternoon to take over the number two spot.

Royal Vancouver Yacht Club tied for fifth spot with Montreal's Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club.

TOLL BRIDGE AUTHORIZED FOR KOOTENAY LAKE

VICTORIA (CP) — Construction of a toll bridge across the west arm of Kootenay Lake at Nelson has been authorized by the B.C. Toll Highway and Bridge Authority.

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black, a member of the authority, said Wednesday approval had been given to construction of a toll structure across the lake to replace the present cable ferry.

He gave no indication when tenders would be called. The bridge would eliminate a bottleneck on the southern trans-provincial highway.

The span was the second approved by the Toll Authority since its formation last winter. Tenders have been called for construction of an Agassiz-Rosedale toll span across the Fraser River near Chilliwack.

The Provinces and the Nation

IN A HIGHLY SIGNIFICANT speech the other day Mr. Pickersgill, secretary of state, said the present taxation quarrel between the federal and Quebec Governments could not long continue. Quebec taxpayers, Mr. Pickersgill thinks, will not endure for more than a year the present provincial income tax levied by the Duplessis Government on top of the federal tax.

Clearly the federal Government is anxious to cure this injustice to the people of Quebec—an injustice for which the Duplessis Government is entirely responsible. The door to a reasonable settlement, as Mr. Pickersgill says, has been kept open, but so far Mr. Duplessis has made no move to enter it. For the moment he seems to prefer an alleged grievance to a sound tax agreement, like those long ago accepted by nine provinces. His strategy is to blame Ottawa for his refusal to enter the agreement and for the present double tax.

While Mr. Duplessis' game is plain enough—the same old game of mischief-making he has long played—the fiscal problem thus created is extremely complicated, but must be understood if the situation now developing is to be grasped by the nation at large.

The federal Government offers Quebec, like all other provinces, an annual subsidy, based on population and other factors, if Quebec refrains from levying an income tax. Mr. Duplessis refuses the subsidy and levies the tax. He is thus raising less revenue than he could secure freely from the federal treasury. He argues, therefore, that Ottawa should allow Quebec taxpayers to deduct his tax from their federal income tax. This arrangement, he says, would cost Ottawa less than the proposed subsidies.

Superficially that looks like a good case. But if Ottawa once accepts it the whole federal-provincial tax agreement system will be destroyed in the end. For if Ottawa allows deduction of the present Quebec income tax—about 15 per cent of the federal rate—Mr. Duplessis will soon be asking for a deduction of 20 per cent or more. Any other province can ask the same and return to the lucrative income tax field.

This would not raise the total income tax, of course, but it would deplete the Federal Government's revenues. Carried to its logical conclusion, the Duplessis doctrine would force the Federal Government out of the income tax field altogether, or force it into vast increases of the indirect sales tax. The Federal Government therefore is not so much concerned with Mr. Duplessis' present tax as with a precedent which, continually expanded in future, could undermine the fiscal structure of the nation.

It is evident, however, from statements by various provincial governments, including those of Ontario and British Columbia, that the existing taxation agreement is under heavy strain, though no one so far has been able to think of anything better. Hence the fiscal—and the political—problem of Quebec obviously is compelling the Federal Government to take a new look at the whole situation.

Some new formula, perhaps, can be worked out between Ottawa and Quebec which will satisfy both sides and the other provinces. Both for partisan reasons and in the valid national interest the Federal Government will try to satisfy the people of Quebec, now puzzled by a double taxation system which makes no sense to anybody.

As Mr. Pickersgill has said, the field of federal-provincial finance will be one of the most important and difficult before all eleven Canadian Governments in the immediate future. From now on we shall hear much of it. However its details may be argued, one fact is clear: In some fashion the cream of the nation's wealth, always channeled into Ontario and Quebec by national tariff and other policies, must be redistributed, to some extent anyway, among the poorer provinces so that they may maintain a reasonable minimum of public services. Otherwise intolerable conditions in at least six provinces will set the whole nation quivering.

In the Name of Common Sense

THE PROTECTIONISTS IN THE U.S. Congress won a victory when they reduced the President's request for a three-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act to a mere one-year term. The act empowers the Executive to extend certain tariff reductions to countries which do the same for the United States.

In reality, since the act has been in effect for a number of years on a year-to-year basis, few tariff concessions remain to be made within the limitations of the measure. But that fact and the one-year extension apparently did not provide enough protection in the opinion of many Republicans. They went further, asking the Administration to promise to undertake no new trade commitments during the next twelve months, which, of course, would nullify the effect of the act.

The protectionists' attitude is difficult to reconcile with the obvious requirements of the present international situation. It is said that most of their desire to tie the hands of the Administration springs from a fear that Mr. Eisenhower plans to enter into a reciprocal trade treaty with Japan. But Japan, for a number of reasons, must be encouraged to further its contacts with the West rather than with the communist part of the globe.

On this point, The New York Times, long an advocate of freer international trade, observes: "How in the name of common sense can this nation insist that other countries to whom trade is essential, and Japan is only one of them, have no commercial intercourse with Russia and her satellites if at the same time we shut the door to freer trade with ourselves?"

The question cannot be answered in terms of domestic politics or individual profit. It demands a wider view of world affairs than many Congressmen are willing to take. But wrong answers will have to be paid for in full, perhaps at many times their current assessment. World leadership, which the United States has had thrust upon it, demands a world outlook by national legislators. Canada's recent action in fostering trade with Japan might well be given study by representatives in Washington.

Directed by Canada's Best

SIR ERNEST MACMILLAN HAS added his tribute to Victoria's symphony. Almost immediately upon his arrival, he began rehearsals with the musical organization he will direct in two performances next week. But he found time, before starting work, to comment on the fine progress made by the symphony under Hans Gruber.

His words were flattering. His presence here is even more convincing. An artist of Sir Ernest's calibre does not take time to participate in concerts with orchestras of no consequence. His appearance is clear evidence of the increasing maturity and worth of the local group.

When performances are presented next Tuesday and Wednesday they will undoubtedly offer musical treats to our citizens. It is important that they should be recognized as such and that recognition should be reflected in public support. For a symphony orchestra in which this community takes pride, directors have secured the services of one of the world's most outstanding conductors next week. One ingredient only is needed to assure the complete success of the concert. That is the patronage of sufficient citizens to ensure full houses on both occasions.

Loup Garou? We've Had Him

A RECENT news item said a Montreal doctor of philosophy intended to climb a haunted hill in Quebec and prove or disprove the existence of Loup Garou, the werewolf of French-Canadian folklore.

The doctor of philosophy is battling in a minor league; he's playing in the sandlots of modern ghostliness. Loup Garou may have been a worthy adversary in an earlier era. But a mere werewolf is the least of our troubles today.

A generation that must cope with the hydrogen bomb, with supersonic missiles, with colorless, deadly gas, with death rays and assorted horrors out of the laboratory can't waste much time being afraid of Loup Garou. Who bothers slapping mosquitoes when he's facing a grizzly? That haunted Quebec mountain might make a handy place for a bomb shelter, give or take a few werewolves. Otherwise we haven't much interest in it.

LOOSE ENDS

Mr. Snifkin's Tragedy

THE whole tragedy began, says my neighbor, Mr. Horace Snifkin, when his wife saw the picture of a modern bathroom in The Ladies Home Journal. After that nothing would satisfy her but a similar bathroom attached to the mouldering guest cottage in the Snifkins' humble summer menage.

In vain Mr. Snifkin protested that his guests had got along all right for some thirty years without a bathroom, seemed none the worse for it and always came back every weekend. The modern guest, Mrs. Snifkin replied, must be given modern comforts. And so, cursing the editors of The Ladies Home Journal, the plumbing companies and the theory of human progress, Mr. Snifkin began to add a bathroom to the cottage.

MRS. Snifkin expected it to be complete by next weekend and proposed to spend a quiet Sunday in a nice hot tub with some perfumed bath salts and the latest copy of The Journal. But Mrs. Snifkin unfortunately is not versed in the architecture of summer cottages. After removing one end of the cottage Mr. Snifkin and his volunteer helper—a husky youth of dangerous enthusiasms—discovered certain minor difficulties. That is to say, the foundations of the cottage, laid long ago by a half-witted old man, were dead, were completely decayed. The cottage stood on a brown mush which had once been beams but were now only a teeming kingdom of ants.

BEFORE the addition could proceed, therefore, it was necessary to prop up the entire cottage with borrowed jacks and install a new foundation. This took a hard fortnight of labor while Mrs. Snifkin patiently inquired, from a heap of rotten boards and a mountain of excavated clay whether the bathroom would be ready two days hence for the arrival of some very special guests from the better class of Toronto society.

Mr. Snifkin made no reply. He was lying prostrate in a dank and narrow cavern between the cottage floor and the earth, a vertical space of some ten inches, among the ants. He could make no reply because his mouth was full of sawdust and his heart was full of a cold, silent hatred of human kind.

INCH by inch Mr. Snifkin wriggled like an inferior sort of worm into the labyrinth constructed by that forgotten builder, and the further he wriggled the more appalling did the architecture of the cottage appear. It had been devised, apparently, by a genius. Nothing less than genius, says Mr. Snifkin, could have conceived this monstrous growth of beams, rafters and patches like a child's fort built in a tree.

For all these years the cottage had been admired for its rustic beauty and quaint, weathered look. In fact, it was a crumbling ruin, a public menace, a tale told by an idiot.

The idiot, unfortunately, was dead and beyond the reach of Mr. Snifkin's vengeance. His hands could grasp nothing but rotten wood, clay and ants. Mrs. Snifkin suggested by telegram that her Toronto friends delay their arrival for another week.

SO all the weeks since the first of April have come and gone, there is no bathroom and there is very little cottage. Piece by piece Mr. Snifkin has torn it all down, leaving only the front porch, which he built on last year. It should come down also, Mr. Snifkin admits, but he hasn't the heart to destroy his own work.

Thus Mrs. Snifkin, from the rising pinnacle of earth and broken lumber, beholds not a bathroom but a vast and empty hole within which lies Mr. Snifkin, urging her weakly to end his agony by burying him forthwith in his unmarked grave.

BUT I must not exaggerate. Some part of the cottage is still standing. The massive stone fireplace looms naked in the ruins and it is quite solid if you don't push it, though a mere touch dislodges every stone. Apparently the builder forgot to mix his mortar properly.

Also, as he burrowed forward amid a litter of shattered lumber, Mr. Snifkin discovered a neglected cupboard, long used as a receptacle for trash and never opened for ten years at least. This structure was so sound that Mr. Snifkin decided to preserve it and it stood there, erect and noble, in lonely grandeur like the chimney.

WELL, today Mr. Snifkin, in a last desperate resolve, decided to rip the back off the cupboard and see what it contained. It contained several pairs of old rubber running shoes, some whisky bottles, alas empty, a pair of ladies' curling irons of antique design, and several broken dinner plates. On the top shelf, perfectly preserved, glistening in the effulgent rays of sunset, what do you suppose? Why, naturally, an antique metal receptacle once fashionable in all pioneer bedrooms.

Mr. Snifkin and Mrs. Snifkin stood gaping at this discovery, which seemed to proclaim, with its hard, metallic glint, the vanity of human progress. But it instantly solved Mr. Snifkin's problem. When he found his voice again, Mr. Snifkin cried out hoarsely in sudden triumph that with this article of furniture available, there was no need for a bathroom. So he laid down his tools, walked off the job, poured himself a double hys and gazed wistfully at his huge hole in the ground.

Mrs. Snifkin has just sent another telegram to Toronto.

As Our Readers See It

IMPROVING TIMES

I was pleased to see that your able music critic, Mrs. Audrey St. D. Johnson, has discarded her hat. Hats, like people, are not always pathetic, and quickly go out of fashion.

Speaking of the Times editors' portraits, may we have a more mature, self-assured one of our noted editor, Mr. Bruce Hutchison? What about that nice one published with the prize-winning article in Maclean's, "A Dangerous European Luxury . . . ?"

Now that we are in—supposed to be—the Summer season, which some call the silly season, wouldn't you all like to go on holiday and come back fresh in the autumn? Mr. Monte Roberts seems to be in the true spirit. For a change I would suggest you put some of your regular contributors to the Letter Column in Messrs. Pepper, Cadwallader, Tom Clark and a few other candid critics.

LITTLE UNDERSTANDING

I read a letter in the Times of June 12 from a Tom Clark. One would think on reading this letter that instead of blood being in his heart, it was Venom. From a previous letter of his one would think that he had read some of the Bible, but this last letter shows that he has very little understanding or appreciation of what it teaches.

While I do not know this man, he has painted his picture or character in this letter of his. He complains that the Times has not printed some of his letters. It is good for him that they haven't. It would have been his good fortune if they had not printed this last one.

At Proverbs 14:16 we read "that a wise man feareth, but a fool rageth and is confident." Mr. Clark must know what an idiot he is.

for that is what he called the Times staff. The editor must be a mild and understanding man when he heads such a letter "Fan Mail."

TIT FOR TAT

PEN PALS

I hope you will excuse me, sir, if I am wrong in addressing this letter to you. It is because I do not know any other organization in Canada, which can serve my purpose. It is my opinion that newspapers are most intimate with every individual from all walks of life and these are very helpful.

It is my great desire to have some pen-friends in Canada with whom I can correspond on various subjects concerning life, day-to-day developments and prospects in Canada with a view to have a real picture of life there. To be frank, I may state that I am an intending immigrant from Pakistan and would like to have some friends in your area before my settlement, which may materialize after a couple of years. So far the immigration regulations are concerned, I am in know of it and there is nothing I need to bother you in this connection.

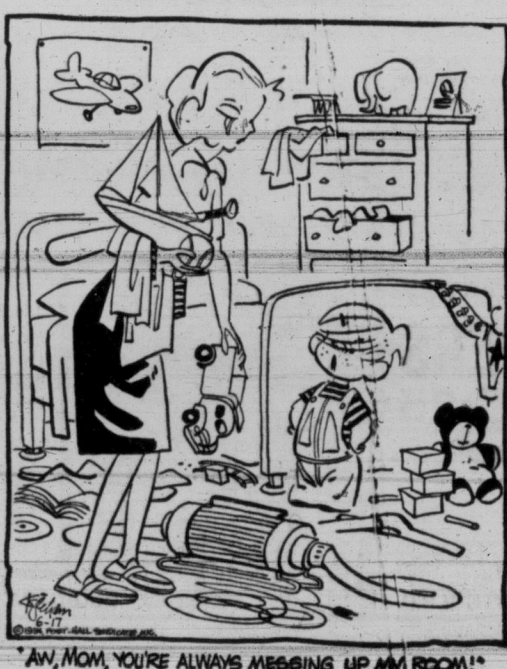

I would only like you to send me some addresses of interested persons or may otherwise pass on to them my addresses, so that we may make a start towards the promotion of our friendly relations. I am sure through your good offices, it will not be difficult to find some introduction. All letters received will be replied.

At present I am staying in Tokyo and will be here for some more years to come. My age is 29. It will be a pleasure for me if there is any service I can render similarly to you from this end.

Right in His Own Backyard

EUROPE FOR THE EUROPEANS

CENTRAL AMERICA FOR US AMERICANS!

Colonialism—Basic Problem

BY WALTER LIPPMANN, From Washington

RECENTLY I have been reading a speech, which was delivered in New York in January, by Mr. Moekarto, the Ambassador from Indonesia. Mr. Moekarto made plainer than I have seen it done elsewhere—what is at the bottom of the charge of "colonialism" which is brought against us not only in Southeast Asia, but also in so many countries of Latin America.

Though Mr. Moekarto did not say it in so many words, the essential idea, implicit in what he said, is that colonialism does not end with the grant of political independence.

As long as the economic life of the newly independent state is dependent upon the export of a few primary commodities, it will feel itself in a colonial relationship with the industrialized nations to which it exports its primary products.

This is the main reason why countries which are no longer political colonies of any of the Western empires, which have no reason to fear and do not as a matter of fact fear any scheme of reconquest, do nevertheless continue to agitate the issue of colonialism.

It also explains why the United States has become the principal object of this anti-colonial agitation. As we are the largest industrial power and therefore the greatest user of primary products, the ups and downs of our business cycle, the fluctuations of our commercial transactions and most importantly the character of our trade policy, have enormous impact upon the countries which have a "colonial" economy.

STABILITY AFFECTED

Their standard of living, their prospects of development, their very political stability is affected by this relationship. A change in the U.S. tariff, quota, or stockpiling policy can upset completely the economy of many of the underdeveloped countries.

American imports of tin and rubber are vital for Indonesia, as is oil for Venezuela, tuna fish for Peru and tin for Bolivia, to cite a few examples. This dependence causes the grievances of colonialism, a grievance which is aggravated, of course, by the uncouth manners of politicians recklessly throwing their weight around.

Mr. Moekarto described the conditions of his country and of the other countries of Southeast Asia as being "unstable, uneasy, and a source of increasing social discontent." And he asserted that:

"The emphasis of the Western powers has been on achieving a military balance of power. They have neglected the even more basic problem of the economic balance of power with respect to Southeast Asia. The danger stems from a number of factors.

"First is a psychological one—the achievement of substantial progress in Communist countries cannot fail to exercise powerful attraction on underdeveloped countries whose rate of progress has not been so rapid. In the second place, a nation which has no sound economic base is vulnerable, both politically and militarily, because it cannot retain the loyalty of its population when it does not satisfy their basic needs and their aspirations for the future.

"The consequence of this economic imbalance is to create pressures which may tend to attract underdeveloped countries towards a system which in a similar stage of development, has apparently succeeded in some degree in meeting the problems which they have not begun to solve."

LIMITED EXPORTS

The Indonesian ambassador illustrated his argument by pointing out that his country is dependent upon a few major exports, principally tin and rubber. They account for approximately two-thirds of its earnings in foreign exchange and for its imports of capital and consumer goods. He then pointed out that the price of tin and rubber in the past three years has varied more than 250 and 300 per cent, respectively.

The feeling of dependence upon fluctuating prices which are fixed in foreign markets, of being the helpless object of violent changes, is painful in itself and is difficult to reconcile with a sense of national independence.

Indonesia, like all other countries which have ceased to be political colonies, wishes also to cease to be an economic colony. How is that to be done? In the long run, only by "a greater diversification of the bases of their economic viability." This will tend to make them less vulnerable to the violent ups and downs in world prices.

But diversification requires capital investment. And capital for investment depends on the dollars and the sterling that can be earned by the export of these violently fluctuating primary products. "It is impossible," said Mr. Moekarto, "to execute or even plan continuous development programs without being assured of a steady flow of our most important resources of finances: foreign trade earnings."

OTHER REGIONS TOO

Needless to say, this problem is not confined to Southeast Asia. The relation between the developed and the underdeveloped regions of the world is usually an uneasy one and it is the basic problem of inter-American affairs.

There is a mounting sense of grievance directed in some considerable measure at the same kind of thing which the Indonesian ambassador complained about. It does not solve the problem but it clarifies it somewhat for us to remember that the same essential problem exists within the United States, and that it is to the solution of this problem that our agricultural parity price system is addressed.

Trying to Capture Quebec

Winnipeg Free Press

SOCIAL CREDIT now competes on the Right for the historic protectionist support of the Conservative Party while on the Left it denounces Socialism and under the absolute control of the state through the fixing of prices and wages for the detailed management of money. In addition, Social Credit has accumulated certain racist instincts repulsive to most Canadians.

With all this assorted baggage it approaches the next general election as the avowed destroyer of the Conservative Party and the ultimate Right wing of politics. Like the Conservative Party, however, it immediately encounters the formidable barrier of Quebec. There the Conservative Party, as in the elections of 1911 and 1930, can think of nothing better now than a rather shame-faced alliance with the extreme nationalist elements, Mr. Duplessis now being selected to fulfill the function once ably performed by Mr. Bourassa.

It will be interesting to see how Social Credit proposes to gain a foothold in Quebec, where its first attempt was a total failure. The forces of similarity and attraction between Social Credit and the anti-libertarian, obscurantist, and isolationist views of Mr. Duplessis are too obvious to escape notice. However, these two splinter movements may disagree on financial theory, in their instincts and deeper views of society they fit like hand and glove.

As the situation develops we may well witness a competition between Mr. Drew, the leading contender, and Mr. Low, a later arrival, for the favor of Mr. Duplessis and the Quebec nationalists. In any case the plans of Social Credit's Winnipeg conference promise only to widen the split and narrow the splinters of the opposition, to postpone the day when a second national Party can be built in Canada.

Holiday

The clattering waves on the rust-bronze rock
Climb and break in jade and white,
A cove where the grebe dives, to him no shock
Of waters stops his fun, the light
Catches his ebony gloss; and nearer me
A tiny gold-green kinglet swings
On tossing bough of shore oak tree,
A bit of ocean given wings.
Pleasure is here, the sense of play;
The birds are having a holiday.

—CLARA HILL MAUNSELL

A Matter of Faith

I DO wish that a certain grey-haired woman with a pinched-up mouth and tired-looking feet wouldn't come to our place and try to sell me religious books at the door.

To begin with, I am irritated by her bland and probably false assumption that she knows the Bible better than I do. Moreover, I don't consider religion a commodity to be sold at the door for 50c. She's always careful, though, to explain that she isn't selling the book. The 50c is to cover the cost of binding, printing and distribution. (And if that isn't selling, I don't know what is.)

When I refuse the book, she gives me a pamphlet for nothing. The pamphlet is full of hatred for another sect to which neither the woman nor I belong.

Normally, I accept it with a semblance of politeness, and throw it in the waste-basket as soon as she is gone.

But on her last visit, in a fit of idiocy, I muttered that hatred seemed a poor foundation to build on and Canadians needed more religious tolerance, not less.

That opened the floodgates, and she poured forth a stream of scorn and hatred for the sect that sees the truth all wrong, or, in other words, differently from the way she sees it. I shut my mind off from her and let my thoughts wander to a field I know.

It's a big, flat field that stretches from the house to the road. And it means something different to all the people who use it. To the farmer, it's feed for his cows. I think of it as the Elysian Fields because once, in the year that it was planted to purple vetch and waving oats and wheat, I saw it in a golden sunset haze after a day of soft, misty rain. In pasture years, the farmer's children play baseball there before the spring grass is grown. A certain big brown dog knows it as a glorious space to race and romp and roll in when puppy spirits are too much for him. To his owners, it's the view from their living room window.

But no matter what it means to them individually, the field is still the field.

It seems to me that religion, or faith, or whatever you may like to call it, is much the same. It may be Christian or non-Christian, and we approach it by many different paths, but it still remains the vision of the Good Life.

And while I thought on these things, my attention was caught by what my visitor was saying. It appeared that she used to go and see a woman who belonged to the despised sect and who was very ill. My visitor went every Tuesday, trying, in vain, to convince the sick woman that her faith was wrong.

"And then the lady passed on," she concluded virtuously, "so naturally my visits stopped."

I'm not easily shocked, but that story sickened me. It recalled another woman, a widow, who was also dying and whom I went to see when she was convalescing after her first terrible operation.

She was lying on a couch by the window of her tall, thin boarding house because from there she could see the pear tree blooming in the narrow, fenced-in yard.

We talked gently for awhile with spells of silence in between because she tired easily and I knew her so well that the silent spells weren't awkward.

And in one of them, I thought about her life and how hard she'd worked bringing up her two fatherless children. She'd scrimped and saved and nearly starved in the depression years, and then, just after she'd seen the children married and safely launched, and the financial burden was eased at last, she found that she had cancer, deeply rooted.

It seemed a miserable life to me, and inwardly, I felt savage and bitter for her sake. I remembered how she had always had a strange serenity, and, even now, there was a patient acceptance that I couldn't comprehend.

When I left, with both of us knowing that I'd likely see her again, I said I hoped the pain would lessen soon.

Her poor nondescript little face crumpled for a moment. "I couldn't bear it," she whispered, "if I didn't remember our Lord and how He suffered, too."

The crumpling smoothed then, and the serenity flowed in again.

And ever since that day, I've despised those who, unasked, seek to alter or undermine another's religious faith.

IT WAS BOUND TO HAPPEN

BENARES, India (Reuters)—Frightened citizens besieged newspaper offices today demanding more details of "the greatest tragedy in history" after reading banner headlines that 500,000 people had been killed by an atom bomb explosion in Canada. Editors explained they had misunderstood a radio report on the mock atomic raid test carried out this week in the United States and Canada.

New Prairie Floods Will Slash Wheat Planting by Million Acres

REGINA (AP)—Prairie farmers and townsfolk could expect little relief from widespread flooding today as cold rains continued to pelt sodden wheat lands.

More rain was predicted in most districts, with thunder showers in southern and eastern Saskatchewan where heavy downpours and overflowing rivers have caused inestimable damage to seeded wheat crops.

The rain began about three weeks ago in northwestern Alberta, spreading in torrential spurts to southwestern Manitoba. With the exception of Yorkton, Sask., almost isolated Monday night when rains cut through even black-topped highways, the cities have reported little serious flooding.

Flooding now is most severe in Kamsack district, 150 miles northeast of Regina and near the Saskatchewan-Manitoba border, where the Assiniboine River flood crest forced evacuation of several families after passing through Canora where similar damage was done.

Farmers living along the Assiniboine and Whitesand River valleys are reported flooded out—as they were last year—as waters threaten to reach the level of the disastrous 1918 flood.

Federal agriculturalists estimate the rains will account for a 1,000,000-acre reduction in wheat planting. Some farmers kept off their land altogether may be seeding coarse grains, but the summer-fallow acreage is expected to be greater than usual.

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Phil Silvers Writes

NEW YORK—Phil Silvers writes: Some years ago I picked up a Sunday paper and turned to its drama section. The critic that day had taken an overdose of nostalgia pills.

"When," he sobbed, "are we going to return to the kind of laugh shows Broadway was presenting a few decades back—books with honest-to-goodness laugh screams?"

By a happy instance of timing, Dorothy Kilgallen was poised for vacation. Invited to write a guest column, I prepared a piece that tried to prove that the old days were not all they were cracked up to be, at least in the humor field, and that today's standards are just as high, maybe higher. I tried to prove it by citing a few of the big jokes from Broadway show smashes of 25 years ago.

At any rate, here is Dorothy on vacation again and the same critic up to his old tricks. Last week, he noted: "It is becoming impossible to make intelligent comparison between wit and humor of today and that of Broadway's glorious past. The present suffers fiercely. It's as though, for style and quality, you likened Mack Sennett to Shakespeare."

Really? Let's see: Here was the big Bert Wheeler-Robert Woolsey joke in Ziegfeld's hit, "Rio Rita":

"I have insomnia. I just can't sleep."

"Then drink whisky. It won't put you to sleep but it makes it a pleasure to stay awake."

Here's another lulu from York and King's "A La Carte":

"Don't stand there telling there's no such thing as a three-dollar bill—I just got one from my dentist!"

Willie Howard, God bless him, was working in a show called "Sky High" in 1925. This was the big howl in that one:

"Do you know the king's English?" "Certainly, so's the queen!"

Bert Lahr, who appears in the current screen version of "Rose Marie," might like to know this is what convulsed audiences about 30 years ago in the original:

"And you kissed him?" "Yes. When I wanted to scream, I couldn't. And when I could, I didn't want to."

How about this jazzy gag Bobby Watson was clicking with in "Annie Dear":

"I'm a movie actor, I was in 'The Covered Wagon'."

"Really, I didn't see you."

"Oh, I was in the wagon."

Those were the days? With gags like this one used by Elliot Nugent in "The Poor Nut":

"Going to the dance?" "No, I have a case of lumbago."

"Oh, those girls will drink anything."

Wonder how Fred Astaire feels today about this shaft of wit he and his sister Adele were using back in those "hilarious" days when they worked in "Lady, Be Good":

"Where do flies go in the winter?" "I don't know. But I wish they'd go there in the summer!"

And Fred Allen was laying 'em in the aisles with this in "The Greenwich Village Follies":

"What do you know of love?" "Plenty—I used to drive a taxi."

And Ed Wynn's audiences in "Grab Bag" were giggling themselves silly over this one:

"I thought you said this apartment overlooked the river."

"That's right. When they laid it out, they overlooked the river."

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A lung cancer victim Wednesday withdrew his $250,000 damage suit against four tobacco companies and a food store chain.

The withdrawal petition by Ira C. Lowe of nearby Festus, Mo., gave no reason for the action and Lowe's lawyer, Donald Siegel, said he could not discuss the move which was taken without prejudice, meaning the suit could be brought again.

Lowe, 39, whose right lung was removed in 1952 after cancer was discovered, filed the suit last March, blaming the cancer on cigarette smoking.

Socialized Medicine Scorned by Doctors

System Would Place Profession Under Control of State, Says Retiring Presiding

VANCOUVER, B.C. (BUP)—Any possibility that Canadian doctors might go along with socialized medicine faded today in the wake of a statement that the powerful Canadian Medical Association doesn't want it.

The policy stand regarding both socialized medicine and compulsory health insurance, similar to that which operated in Britain, was announced here Wednesday by Dr. C. E. W. Burns of Winnipeg, retiring president of the CMA. Either system would "place the medical profession under the control of the state, and we are unitedly opposed to it," he said at the group's 87th annual convention.

Burns conceded, however, in a speech to some 1,000 doctor-delegates, that the CMA might be willing to settle for modified national health insurance provided the payments were voluntary and that the state paid premiums for those who couldn't afford them and the "stupendous cost" of illness.

Such a plan would ensure freedom of choice of doctor and patient and a minimum of "third party interference," he said.

Burns, who was succeeded as CMA president Wednesday night by Dr. G. F. Strong of Vancouver, an internal medicine and heart specialist, said persons who demand more and more subsidies for health or other purposes were not the type who made Canada a great country.

"It is not the rich or poor who demand a government-sponsored health insurance plan, but the middle-men who are most in need of assistance against the stupendous cost of major illness," he said.

Joe Forced Oppenheimer Loyalty Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional sources today said one reason the United States administration decided to conduct a security review of atomic scientist J. Robert Oppenheimer was to head off a possible congressional investigation.

William L. Borden wrote to the FBI Nov. 7, 1953, after resigning as executive director of the Senate-House atomic energy committee, that his study convinced him Oppenheimer "more probably than not... is an agent of the Soviet Union."

Copies of Borden's letter came into possession of the investigating committee headed by Senator McCarthy. McCarthy, the Wisconsin Republican, has spoken of looking into Oppenheimer's record.

The informants said some congressmen fear any capitol hill probe might throw the case into public "partisan politics," and that they led a backstage move to place it before the special board.

WOULD NOT HAVE LIVED ANYWAY

Doctor's Wife Was 'Seriously Ill'

VANCOUVER (CP)—A doctor testified Wednesday that Mrs. Margaret Rush was "not concerned over living."

The testimony was given by Dr. J. Lyle Telford in Assize Court where Dr. Raymond D. Rush is on trial charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of his wife November 30.

Under cross-examination by defense counsel L. S. Parsons, Dr. Telford said Mrs. Rush "suffered severe pain for a long time and was taking drugs to ease her agony."

He further testified that even with medical care she would not have lived "very long," because of the seriousness of her ulcerated colitis condition.

Dr. Telford told the court that Mrs. Rush "had an aversion to hospitals," and when she refused his advice to have X-rays taken, he withdrew from the case.

Dr. Rush is accused of failing to give his wife proper care when she was seriously ill. He pleaded not guilty to the manslaughter charge.

Dr. M. M. MacPherson, who also attended the woman, testified she was "emotionally immature and somewhat unstable."

The trial continued today.

Island Meet Draws Record Track Entry

By RON COULTER

A record entry of 112 thinclads is scheduled to take to the cinders at the annual Vancouver Island track and field championships here Saturday night.

The popular Island meet, cosponsored by the Victoria YMCA Track Club and Victoria Daily Times, will be held at the Gyro cinder track at Victoria High School starting Saturday night at 7.

Pavelich

Stars from Seattle, Everett, Bellingham, Vancouver, New Westminster, Victoria and Cumberland will compete. Winners in all events will be presented with medals.

A large entry from the Seattle Track and Field Club has been received and the American athletes are rated a strong chance to dethrone some defending champions.

Jim Hilton of Seattle and the University of Washington is expected to be extended to the utmost in the pole vault by Mermi Hansen of Vancouver Olympic Club.

Hilton is defending champion, winning the event with a leap of 12 feet, six inches last year. Hansen has done 12 feet, 10 inches this year, and both will be trying for the 13-foot mark here.

Orland Anderson of Seattle is also capable of reaching the 13-foot level.

Husky Larry Pulford of Seattle, entered in the shot put, has heaved the shot 47 feet, three inches. John Pavelich, who will be defending his title, holds the existing meet record of 46 feet, six and one-half inches.

Sprints Draw Classy Field
Speedy Bob Leadbetter of Seattle, a University of Washington sprinter, will add class to an already star-studded entry in the sprints.

He will be matching strides with Bruce Springbett, Vancouver; Dave Stafford, New Westminster; and Bob Hutchison and Terry Tobacoco of the Victoria Y.

Abe Angell and Ron Vehrs of Seattle, two quarter-mile speedsters, will provide additional competition for Victoria Y's Ted Whan in the 440-yard sprint.

Olympic Games runner Jack Hutchins' entry has also been received for the quarter-mile.

Any or all these runners should break the existing meet record of 50.6, held by Doug Clement of Vancouver.

Beauty, in addition to talent, was added to the field recently with the entry of Canadian hurdles champion Alice Folz of Vancouver. She will compete in a classy field entered in sprint and broad jump events.

Victoria fans will see at least six girls who are rated the strongest chance for selection to the Canadian British Empire Games team next month in Vancouver.

Trials for the Canadian B.E.G. team are scheduled to be held in Vancouver, July 9 and 10. The Games open July 30.

Little to Choose From Here
Field Ryan of Seattle is another entry in the classic mile run. He will run against defending B.E.G. mile champion Bill Parnell, Peter Harris, Phil Matson and Gerry Swan of New Westminster.

Matson was a finalist in the Pacific Coast Conference mile this year, while Swan was a finalist in the American Small Colleges national three-mile event.

Harris last week posted a new Canadian three-quarter-mile record by covering the distance in 3.08 minutes.

The Seattle club has also entered a one-mile relay team to bring the number of entries in this event to six. Vancouver Olympic Club is sending two teams, Vancouver Arctic Club, Western Sports Centre and Victoria Y are the other teams.

Teams will attempt to crack the meet record of 3.30.9, held by Victoria Y, and the B.C. standard of 3.27.2, held by the University of British Columbia.

Tickets may be obtained at the gate or from the YMCA main desk.

Brazil Poses Threat In World Cup Soccer

BY COLIN FROST
BERN (AP)—The world soccer championships opened in Switzerland Wednesday—and Brazil soon showed why they are rated a top proposition for the Jules Rimet Cup.

The brilliant Brazilian forwards, led by Oswaldo Balhazar de Silva, slammed in five goals against Mexico in the day's biggest win. Mexico did not score.

France was the first "seeded" team of the 16-nation competition to meet defeat. The French went down 1-0, before a tough Yugoslav side which soon knocked the French forwards off their close-passing game.

REFEREE BUSY
Austria beat the Scots team 1-0 in a hard-fought match that kept the referee busy.

Uruguay, holders of the cup, scored twice in the second half to beat Czechoslovakia 2-0.

The 16 teams in the competition are divided into four sections.

Each team plays two games in the first round—the two "seeded" and theoretically stronger teams play the two theoretically weaker teams in each section.

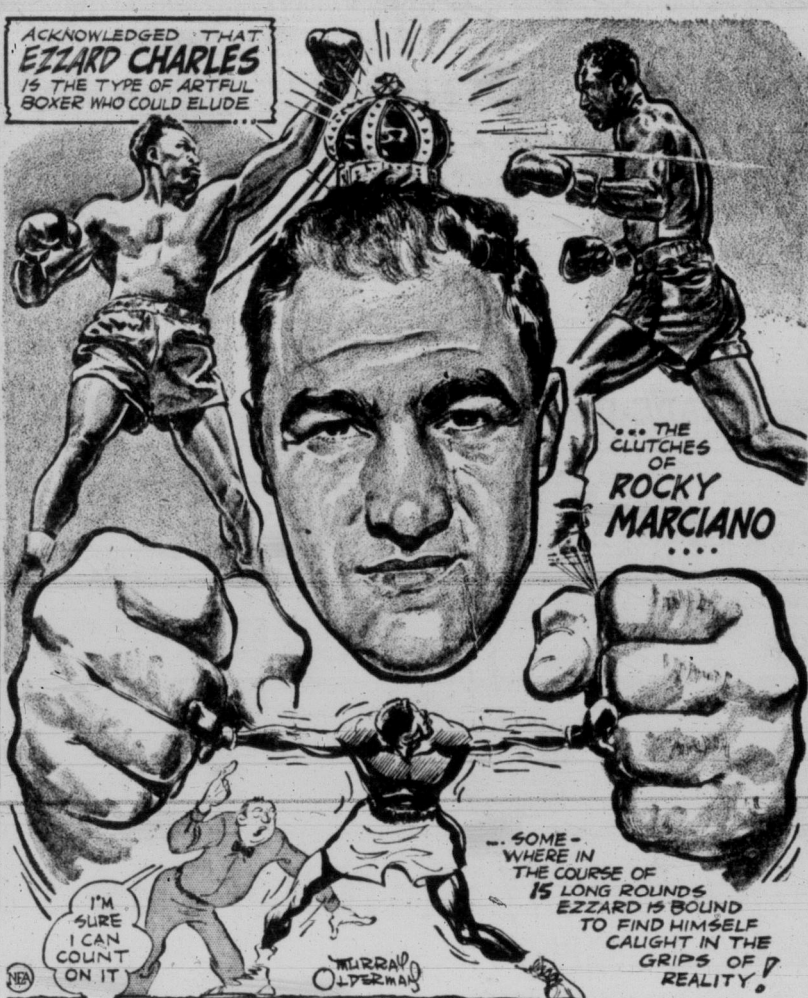

Two teams from each section, decided on a points basis and ignoring goal averages, advance to the quarter-finals. From then on it is a knock-out competition.

Wednesday's wins put Brazil and Yugoslavia at the top of section I with two points each.

LASTING PROBLEM

Rocky Heavy Favorite, But Charles Determined

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—Ezzard Charles bucks the explosive power of heavyweight king Rocky Marciano and a 54-year-old tradition of the ring tonight in a final try to become the first ex-champion to regain boxing's most prized crown. The odds are 5 to 18 that he fails.

"It's now or never for Ezzard," said co-manager Tom Tannas. "He knows it's his last chance and he's never been so determined before. He's right on edge. I hope we don't get any rain to spoil it."

The forecast is for fair and warmer although an earlier prediction by the weatherman called for a threat of late evening thundershowers. But possible postponement which could force a week's setback of the 15-round title fight in Yankee Stadium was uppermost in the minds of the principals and promoters as they anxiously peered at the sky.

A canopy was placed above the ring to keep the canvas dry.

After months of hard training, the gladiators were ready for boxing's biggest and most dramatic show. A rainstorm and a delay until next Thursday means losing that razor edge they've drilled for so long. It could put a big dent in the receipts, too. Postponements bring cancellations.

The promoting international Boxing Club said it will go up to the ball park this evening with $400,000 in the till. Promoter Jim Norris is looking for a 40,000 crowd and $500,000 at the gate with a break from the weatherman.

In addition to the gate receipts the fighters will share Marciano 40 per cent, Charles 20 in close to $200,000 from the coast-to-coast theatre-television, $35,000 from the network ABC radio broadcast, and a possible bonanza from the movies if the fight is sensational.

There will be no home television of the undefeated Marciano's third title defense. The bout will start at 10:30 p.m. EDT.

While the 32-year-old Charles will be seeking to accomplish what eight former champions, including himself, have failed to do, the 29-year-old Marciano will be facing a less potent heavyweight jinx. Only 5 of 17 heavyweights have been able to get by a third defense.

Mile Race Draws Favor At Games
VANCOUVER (CP)—Ticket sales for the British Empire Games beginning here July 30 now total $92,000.

Sales director Sammy Rosen said Tuesday the figure represents 24 per cent of the $385,000 objective.

More than half the sales have been for track and field seats. Rosen reported that the best seats for the final three days of boxing, swimming, and track have been sold.

About 20,000 of the stadium's 25,407 positions have been bought for the track finals on Aug. 7. That is the day Britain's Roger Bannister will meet other Commonwealth milers and many fans dream of another four-minute mile.

Swimming and diving events to be held at a new Olympic-size pool at the University of British Columbia campus are the games' second most popular attraction.

Stubbs Trim Young Rocks
Youthful Denny Young fired five goals to pace Stubbs to a 16-6 victory over Young Shamrocks in an all-star pee-wee lacrosse exhibition game Wednesday night at Memorial Arena.

Jim Gathraith duplicated Young's performance in a bantam league game at Stevenson Park to assist Fernwood to an 11-11 deadlock with Saanich. Tom Collett scored four goals and added four assists for Saanich.

Scorers follow:

Lawn Bowlers to Meet
A meeting will be held in Oak Bay Municipal Hall Monday night at 8 to consider formation of a lawn bowling club in Oak Bay. Anyone interested is invited to attend.

Stan McLeod went the distance for the winners, while George Hemming and Billy Tonkin toiled for the losers.

Bruce Morrison paced the winners at the plate with three hits in three trips, with Tom Birkenhead and Bob Holmes adding two hits each for the winners. McLeod clubbed a double to score two runners in the fourth inning for Kiwanis.

Rocks Rout Tribe

Boost Boxla Lead In Polished Display

Shamrocks 12, PNE Indians 5

By RON COULTER

The fighting Irish are on the move.

And if Victoria Shamrocks can maintain the standard they set Wednesday night at Memorial Arena, their fourth consecutive Intercity Lacrosse League title appears a sure thing.

Shamrocks came up with what was easily their top performance this season before 4,800 fans as they whipped their most feared rival, PNE Indians, 12-5.

Rocks held nothing in reserve for this important game. They outshone their rivals in every department—out-checking, out-running and out-bustling the tribe.

Victory gave the Shamrocks a six-point bulge over the second-place Indians, who have two games in hand over the league leaders. Rocks are now idle until next Wednesday when they host the youthful New Westminster Royals.

McMILLAN PLEASED
Shamrock coach Red McMillan happily acclaimed his charges following the game.

"That was easily the best game we have played this season. Every man dug and gave that extra little bit," he said.

Indians, rated as the strongest threat to Shamrocks, failed in every quarter but the first to match strides and goals with an inspired Irish side.

The game was fast and rough, except for a quiet first period, with Indians falling victims to Shamrocks' potent odd-man attack, a play which netted six goals.

Indians scored first through Bob Lee after Rock's Jack Bionda had missed two chances in front of the Indian net and goalie Gordie Johnston had made some spectacular saves.

Bionda got that one back midway through the period and the teams left the floor at quarter-time deadlocked, 1-1.

ROCKS ROLL
That was all for Indians. Archie Browning scored his first of three goals at 15 seconds of the second canto. Harry Irwin made it 3-1 for the Rocks four minutes later and then Browning fired another sizzler past goalie Stan Joseph in the Indian net, while Nickle was serving a penalty. Bill Bamford put Sevenson in the clear before Nickle returned to boost Rocks' lead to 5-1.

With Jack Thompson off for playing the ball in the crease, Larry Crema took the opportunity to beat Johnston. However, Rocks' Larry Booth countered with a smart effort and Victoria led 6-2 at half time.

Browning notched his third counter early in the third quarter, and Bionda and Jack Northup tallied others.

Whitney Severson scored two goals in the final frame, while Norm Baker added a singleton. Larry Crema and Alf Wood countered for Indians.

Browning and Severson each scored three goals for Rocks while Bamford picked up four assists.

Workers' Strike Here Cancels WIL Schedule

Victoria 1-7, Vancouver 2-5
Victoria Tyees at least are quick to adapt themselves to a change of scenery, when such change is forced upon them.

After losing the afternoon game of a doubleheader to Vancouver Capilano, 2-1, at Vancouver, Wednesday, the Tyees learned that Cap Stadium would be their home for the rest of the week because of the civic outside workers' strike in Victoria.

And so with a new home, temporarily, the Tyees promptly did an about-face in the evening and beat the Caps 7-5.

The strike shuts down services in the city-owned Athletic Park, home of the Tyees.

Tyee general manager Reg Patterson said today that although it is likely that all scheduled four games between the Caps and Tyees would be played in Vancouver, it is possible that if a strike settlement is reached today, the series may be switched back here Friday.

Page Stops All Caps But Williams
In the split with the Caps, the Tyees got good pitching from newcomer Phil Page who allowed the Caps only six hits in suffering the 2-1 loss.

However, one of the blows was a long home run by Marv Williams in the eighth inning which broke a 1-1 tie. Ron Jackson and Tommy Perez hit back-to-back doubles in the seventh to produce Victoria's only tally. Bill Brenner was the winning pitcher. He allowed four hits.

Pinch hitter Milt Martin was the hero of the 7-5 decision in the second game. A booming triple to right field with two aboard broke a 4-4 tie and put the Tyees ahead. Jackson later singled Martin home.

Perez hit a two-run homer for the Tyees in the third. It was his eighth circuit blow of the season.

Bob Drilling was the winning pitcher although he gave way to Martin as a pinch hitter. Mike Kanshin mopped up in relief.

Round Table Aids Spokane Drive
Meanwhile, in Spokane, where an effort is being made to retain professional baseball, the Athletic Round Table stepped into the picture by offering to pay up to $15,000 whatever is needed to finance the Spokane team.

The exact amount of what will be needed to obtain the Spokane franchise and pay off the obligations is not known.

Mayor Arthur Meehan, president of the "Save the Indians for Spokane" group has demanded that Roy Hotchkiss state what money is needed. Estimates put the figure between $10,000 to $60,000.

In other league action Wednesday, Tri-City trimmed Wenatchee, 11-7, and Calgary edged Lewiston, 12-10.

ONE-HIT CHORE LOSES AS PITCHERS STINGY

Young Ricky Kelsall was the hard-luck loser in a Victoria and District Amateur Baseball Association bantam league game Wednesday night at Beacon Hill Park. Kelsall took pitching duties for Hagels' Chesterfield and hurled a sparkling one-hitter, only to lose to his mound opponent Gary Leibel, who tossed a two-hitter as Fernwood Eagles shaded Hagels, 2-0.

Kelsall struck out nine, while Leibel whiffed seven. The winners notched both runs in the fourth inning, the winning tally scoring on a sacrifice by Larry McPherson.

U.S. OPEN GOLF AWAY

Hogan, Snead Golf Choices

SPRINGFIELD, N.J. (UP) — Bantam Ben Hogan, miracle golfer of the low-scoring era, set out as the favorite today to accomplish a feat without equal in the history of the U.S. Open Golf Championship—a fifth triumph in the game's severest test.

It was "Hogan against the field" again, as it has been so often in the past since he rang up his first victory with a record score of 276 in 1948. But the field is stronger than usual, on the basis of dozens of hot qualifying rounds in the sectional trials, and at 40 Ben faces a monumental task in throwing back the challenge of 161 crack golfers, including 135 pros and 26 amateur stars.

Slammin' Sammy Snead, four-time runner-up and grimly determined to bag the only major title that has slipped his grasp in 38 years of campaigning, rated the best chance of thwarting Hogan's bid to break the three-way deadlock that now exists among Hogan, Bobby Jones and Willie Anderson for the most U.S. open titles won—four.

Snead has been moaning for a week about muscle soreness in his neck and back which prevents full freedom of his picture swing but while he maintained "I just can't tell where the ball's going" his practice rounds indicated the 42-year-old slammer still is the big threat.

Ten former champions in addition to Hogan were in the starting field but only the more recent winners like Lloyd Mangrum, Cary Middlecoff, Julius Boros and Lew Worsham, figured to have a chance. Oldsters Billy Burke, Chick Evans, Johnny Farrell, Lawson Little, Gene Sarazen, and little Tony Manero, who won the last open here in 1936, were more a part of the window-dressing than real contenders.

A newer corps of hot money players, led by Bob Toski of Livingston, N.J., was expected to give Hogan and Snead the stiffest battle.

Among them were Doug Ford, Jackie Burke, Shelley Mayfield, Bob Rosburg, Marty Furgol, Bill Nary and Gene Littler.

LOCKE NOT HAPPY

Up to tee-off time for the first of four rounds over the Baltusorg Country Club's difficult par 34-36, neither of the two foreign entrants figured greatly in the title speculation. Former British open champ Bobby Locke of South Africa has found the course a bit long for his classic style and young Peter Thomson of Australia admitted he has been unsatisfactory in practice rounds.

Cartagemen on Top In Junior Ball League

An improving Central Cartage club Wednesday night moved out front in the Victoria and District Amateur Baseball Association junior league by edging Eagles, 2-1, at Royal Athletic Park.

Cartagemen's Stewart Stout and Eagles' Ed Corbett hooked up in a tight pitching duel, Stout emerging the winner as a third-inning double by Eric Helgeson scored two runners.

Stout allowed five hits, struck out six and walked one in going the distance for the win in a game that lasted only one hour and 40 minutes.

Corbett was also in fine form, giving up four hits, striking out 13 and walking four. However, his team could only account for one run, that coming in the fourth without the aid of a base hit.

Helgeson paced the winners' attack with a double and single, while Curly Leachman clubbed two singles for the losers.

Tuesday night, Eagles trounced Skylark Cafe, 9-2, in another league game. Art Green picked up the mound victory, while Ron Pearce hit two doubles for the winners.

Wednesday night's line-score and team standings follow:

'Little Man', 'Big Man', They Both Should Repeat

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP) — "The little man" and the "big man" both lay their titles on the line today and each is regarded as a double-dyed cinch.

The "little man" is Ben Hogan, who starts defense of his U.S. Open golf championship at Springfield, N.J. The "big man" is Rocky Marciano, who defends his world heavyweight championship at Yankee Stadium tonight.

They rank as prohibitive favorites because each is regarded as the greatest hitter in his individual sport.

Marciano's chore would shape up to be the easier of the two. He, after all, has only one man to beat. Hogan must come romping down in front of 161 challengers. From a physical standpoint, however, it figures in reverse. They may cut Hogan up inside but he won't show a mark when this is over which, if you can believe the fight publicity, is more than Marciano can hope for after 15 rounds—or less—against Ezzard Charles.

One of the oddities of this double-barrelled sports program is that in the boxing camps there is much interest in and little doubt of Hogan's victory on the fairways. And, in the locker rooms at Baltusorg, where the golf gathering is getting ready for the big one, there is rabid interest in the fight and nobody gives Charles much of a chance.

It all comes back to the fact that, whether it is boxing or golf, you have to go with the big hitter.

Few people can see Charles, long regarded as a light-punching "fancy Dan" type, staying away from Marciano's bull-like rushes for 15 rounds. The Brockton block-buster is a fighter who knows only to keep swinging. According to Joe Louis, he hurts even when he lands on the arms. Eventually the arms get so weary that they just won't come up quickly enough and that rain of roundhouse punches polishes off a horizontal job.

Ezzard believes sincerely that he has a fine chance, even though those on the outside don't.

And it's the same way in golf. You could find about

Indians' Flag Pattern Begins to Take Shape

Rarely has the future looked so rosy for the Cleveland Indians.

The cripples are coming back with a bang. The club has a three-game hold on first place. And the next eight games are against second-division teams.

Island Problems Get Going-Over At ACCVI Rally

Forbidden Plateau Plan Re-Endorsed

By DON INGHAM
Times Island Editor
PARKSVILLE—After a day and a half of searching for solutions to most of the major problems of Vancouver Island, delegates to the 37th annual convention of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island spent the final session on a tour of Northwest Bay Logging Company operations.

Led by Ian Mahood, chief forester of MacMillan and Bledel Ltd. (eastern division), and Gordon Towill, personnel officer, the Chamber members and their wives watched Dalton Bennett of Nanaimo top a spar tree, saw a pre-loader at work, then—safely behind the windows of a luxurious new Vancouver Island Coach Lines bus—perched atop a 130-foot bridge over Englishman River while Mr. Mahood pointed out some of the company's choicest refested areas.

Among the resolutions passed in the forenoon convention session in St. Edmund's Hall was submission of the Courtenay-Cornwall Chamber of Commerce asking for inclusion of the Forbidden Plateau and "other adjoining areas" in Strathcona Park, as recommended a year ago by the 1953 Legislative committee for Buttle Lake.

The resolutions committee was reluctant to recommend its passage, and suggested referring it back to its sponsor. However, Douglas Greer of Nanaimo pointed out that the sponsor was merely supporting an earlier recommendation, and the resolution passed.

MINIATURE BANFF
"Anyone who has ever visited the Forbidden Plateau will never rest until it is a public park," said Reg Pringle of the Ladysmith Chamber. "It is a miniature Banff—one of the most beautiful spots in Canada."

The delegates acted contrary to a resolutions committee recommendation when they endorsed a resolution from the Alberni Board of Trade asking for lowering of the requirements for letter-carrier delivery from 2,000 to 1,000 house calls, and the revenue from $40,000 to $20,000.

After a motion to shelve the submission failed, R. W. Mawhinney of Nanaimo and Sam Gough of Parksville won majority support of the request.

Tofino's resolution asking that use of trawl seines for catching crabs be prohibited, was amended before passage to a request the federal and provincial governments investigate the practice.

NO "GHOST CARS"
A Ladysmith proposal that "ghost cars" be used on the highways, "so that erring motorists be caught and disciplined," was defeated.

R. Matterson of Ucluelet said "our police have a uniform that we are proud of—we want them to wear it." He also believed tourists would find the "ghost car" system annoying. Mr. Pringle explained that the resolution made no mention of police appearing out of uniform. "And as for tourists—if they are obeying our laws they have nothing to fear."

New ACCVI officers are Norman Schroeder, Park Alberni president; J. H. Elliott, Jordan River vice-president; and George I. Warren, Victoria, secretary-treasurer.

Next year's convention will be held at Duncan.

4,000 Watch Nanaimo Open $1 Million Shop

Crowds Jam Street As Mayor Muir Cuts Ribbon at Simpson-Sears' Store

NANAIMO—A million dollars plus some of the best brains in the retail merchandising field, careful planning and hard work were the ingredients uncovered when Simpson-Sears opened the new store here this morning.

Mayor George Muir, assisted by R. H. Covey, general manager of the Nanaimo store, clipped the ribbon strung across the main door at 9:45 and declared the shop open for business.

The ceremonies filled the bright morning with a carnival air. People milled around outside the giant store, and long before opening time, parking space for blocks around the area were jammed. The cars overflowed into the CPR terminal area. Police estimated 4,000 were on hand to catch a glimpse of the official opening and move through the store.

The Nanaimo outlet of the coast-to-coast chain of Simpson-Sears retail stores contains 20,000 square feet of retail merchandising area.

Mayor Muir said the new store was another giant step ahead in Nanaimo's fabulous development.

Simpson-Sears' general manager for Canada G. F. Trotter said the firm selected Nanaimo as a site for their newest unit "because Nanaimo has everything—strategic situation, natural beauty, and good weather. Her future is assured because of all these things."

Glided scissors used to clip the opening ribbon were presented to Mayor George Muir by Mr. Covey after the ceremony.

Cadets Inspected

QUALICUM BEACH—Cadets of the Qualicum College Cadet Corps here presented a smart appearance at their annual inspection, held on the College's sports field on the beach.

Inspecting officer was Lt. Col. Denis Ross-Smith of Duncan. Also attending were Maj. D. M. Fraser, OC 196 LAA Battalion, to which unit the corps is attached, and Capt. H. R. McMillan, area cadet officer.

Up-Dating of School Grants Proposed at North Cowichan

DUNCAN—An attempt to relate education costs for municipalities directly to pupil-teacher and classroom grants, at modern levels, will be made by North Cowichan Council.

The council Wednesday decided to send a brief to the Vancouver Island Municipal Association in Nanaimo June 30, arguing that the government should bring the Cameron Report of 1945 up to date in respect of grants.

Reeve C. A. P. Munison asked for "some different line" of approach to school costs to that of the UBCM's proposed 80-20 division of costs between the government and municipalities.

"It seems a weak argument and I think the B.C. Teachers' Federation is on better ground in pressing for revision of Cameron legislation," Reeve Munison declared.

North Cowichan also will ask the Nanaimo gathering to seek authority for municipalities to deposit surplus funds with federally-chartered trust companies to secure higher interest rates than are now paid by banks on municipal savings accounts. At present municipalities must place funds in government bonds or banks and may not deposit with trusts.

Other business of the meeting included discussion of resolutions for the district conference to be held at Brentwood on Sept. 23, the taking-out-of-a-membership in the Canadian Mental Health Association, and the usual presentation of progress prizes to each classroom of the Sooke Elementary School. The annual grant was also made to the Girl Guide Association.

There will be the usual summer recess and the next meeting of the institute will be on the first Friday in September.

BLOOD BLITZ SCHEDULED BY CHEMAINUS KINSMEN
CHEMAINUS—Kinsmen President Jim Syme has announced the club would again canvass the district to obtain pledges for the annual Red Cross blood donor clinic to be held here July 8. Canvass will be made on June 28 and 29.

Over 300 pledges were obtained in a whirlwind door-to-door canvass last year but President Syme said that the club would make an effort to obtain many more this year as the clinic had fallen short of its objective last year. He pointed out that over 400 pints of blood were used in Chemainus each year.

Mayor Opens Sears' Store

With 4,000 people watching, Nanaimo Mayor George Muir used golden shears to clip ribbon at official opening at 9:45 a.m. today of Simpson-Sears new million-dollar shopping centre at Nanaimo. R. H. Covey, general manager of the store, held the ribbon while Mayor Muir clipped. More than 100 residents of Nanaimo and mid-Island communities are employed in the shop's 20,000 square feet of merchandising and retailing space. Music by Nanaimo Pipe Band entertained the crowd at this forenoon's ceremony at Nanaimo. (George Molecey Photo.)

$5,000 in Week Langford Goal In Church Drive

LANGFORD—The United Church here will appeal for $5,000 to build a church west of the Knotty Pine restaurant. Approximate cost of the church will be $15,000.

It is hoped to raise this sum within the next week or so through canvassing the surrounding districts for cash and pledges of work.

Decision to undertake the canvass was made at a congregational meeting in Legion Hall.

Rev. H. P. Davidson, minister, was in the chair. He gave a resume of work accomplished so far.

J. C. Nimmo reported on meetings with the extension committee of Victoria Presbytery and the Home Mission Board. Details of a tour of churches up-island were given. Plans for the church will be submitted when result of the canvass is known.

Pledges and cash were received during the meeting which nearly covers the cost of the land.

Canvassers will be needed to cover the districts of Langford, Colwood, Happy Valley and Glen Lake.

A committee meeting was held Wednesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Mathias to map out the assignments of canvassers. Volunteers for canvassing should communicate with James Jackson, 878 Island Highway; telephone 83695.

B.C. Road 'Gift' Refused By North Cowichan

DUNCAN—Continued opposition is being shown by North Cowichan Municipality to acceptance of 13 miles of highway which the provincial government has not wanted following completion of the new highway through the municipality some years ago.

The minister of public works Wednesday asked for the council's reasons for its opposition. The council decided to send a reply pointing out that ratepayers had never accepted the principle that old highway should become a municipal responsibility. (Works Minister Gazlard's letter said it was cause it feels it would face "common practice" for this large maintenance costs and because traffic on the old highway transfer to be made.)

Congress Okays Grain Give-Away Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House of Representatives agreed Wednesday to give the Eisenhower administration authority to sell $1,000,000,000 worth of surplus farm products to friendly nations and give away another $300,000,000 worth.

The three-year program was approved on a voice vote, but before any part of it can become law the House will have to come to terms with the Senate.

A Senate bill already passed provides for only a $500,000,000 disposal program over a period of one year.

$100,000 West Coast Ship Subsidy Stands

Chevrier Confirms Ottawa Will Aid Any Suitable Ship Serving V.I. West Coast

The federal government's offer of a $100,000 subsidy to operate a steamship service on the west coast of Vancouver Island still stands—although the coast is without such a service at the present time.

Transport Minister Lionel Chevrier told the House of Commons Wednesday the maritime commission will consider the application of any shipping company for a subsidy to operate such a service.

He told the Commons a subsidy of $100,000 had been granted to the CPR when that company provided a service. However, the CPR had withdrawn its ships because it no longer was safe for operations on the island's west coast.

"If some other company will make an application for service, I am sure the maritime commission will be glad to give it consideration," he said. "Since the withdrawal of the particular ship and the contract which operated between the maritime commission and the Canadian Pacific, there has been no further application."

Maj. Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC (PC, Esquimalt-Saanich), said there is an urgent need for a steamship service on the west coast of Vancouver Island. Many communities could not be reached by road and depended on steamship service for mail and freight.

Donations Ensure Swim Classes at Qualicum Beach

QUALICUM BEACH—Financial loss caused by small attendance at the recent dance sponsored by the Qualicum Beach PTA was made up by donations from Qualicum District Fish and Game Club, Rotary Club and Chamber of Commerce. Dance's objective was to raise funds for swimming classes here this summer.

Mrs. L. Ware, who will be in charge of the classes, outlined her program at the PTA meeting and registered some of the children. Other children will be registered at the school during the week. An excellent enrolment is indicated.

'TIME TO TAKE A WALK'

Delegate Gets Riled At Tory Convention

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Progressive Conservative convention to pick a party leader opened Wednesday in a 90-minute wrangle that wound up with one member storming from the convention floor and announcing he was going to quit the party.

Cause of the clash was an executive proposal that the Greater Winnipeg Progressive Conservative Club be given five convention votes. The proposal was defeated.

Voting for the new leader will be held today. Candidates include present leader Erick Willis, Duff Roblin and Lt.-Col. J. Arthur Ross. A fourth candidate, Louis Morosnick, a Winnipeg lawyer, withdrew Wednesday.

Following the defeat of the proposal to give the Greater Winnipeg club five votes, Elford Arthur Knox, a lieutenant in the city fire department, said: "I've been voting Conservative for 29 years, and after seeing what I've just seen I think it's about time I took a walk."

When nominations were called

Wednesday Mr. Morosnick's mover and seconder were not in the convention hall.

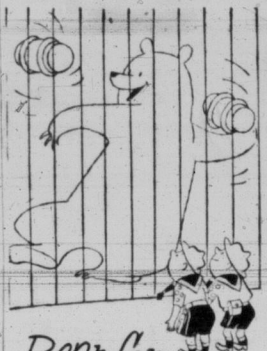

The dark horse candidate strode in the rear door of the hall.

He said: "Regrettably, I must withdraw my name."

Mr. Morosnick explained his mover and seconder had expected the nominations would be held after supper.

"But, if anybody else would like to nominate me, that will be fine," said Mr. Morosnick.

voice from the rear: "move his nomination be discarded."

BCHIS ORDER TERMED 'MONKEY BUSINESS'

An order that persons entering hospital must fill out a form asking 40 questions was classed as BCHIS "monkey business" by John Aubrey (retail clerk) at a meeting of the Victoria Trades and Labor Council (TLC-AFL) Wednesday night.

"How can a person who is sick answer 40 questions, and what the heck has a driver's license got to do with getting into hospital?" demanded the outspoken union official.

"This is only a continuation of the monkey business of the bureaucracy that has been set up here," he declared.

Mr. Aubrey said he had to "suffer the same out" a few years ago when his wife was being admitted to the maternity ward.

The council adopted his motion that copies of the form be secured and studied and council action be taken on the matter.

'Scavenger, Rat' Premier Smallwood's Description of St. John's Newsman

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld (CP)—Premier Smallwood in the Newfoundland legislature Wednesday attacked a former colleague who now is a columnist-reporter for a St. John's newspaper.

The premier accused Harold Horwood of "slanted" reporting and called him a "scavenger" and a "rat."

Referring to two recent articles by Mr. Horwood in the Evening Telegram, the premier said: "This whole thing was written by this dastardly clown, this loathsome literary scavenger, this cutthroat, this rat, who has been using the columns of the Telegram to carry on his own personal vendetta against this government. He hates me like the devil hates holy water."

Mr. Horwood walked out of the press gallery following the premier's speech and said he will not cover any more sessions this year.

Course of Events Leading to City Strike

Here is the course of developments leading up to today's strike by the city's outside workers:

Oct. 31, 1953—Civic Employees' Protective Association, Local No. 50 (TLC), bargaining authority for the outside workers, notified the city of its intention to reopen the existing contract in respect to wages and conditions.

Dec. 10—Association notified the city manager of the contract changes it desired. Changes covered three main points: 1. Wage parity with Vancouver (calling for increases ranging from 8 cents to 35 cents an hour, but averaging 19 cents); 2. half the cost of MSA coverage; and 3. a month's annual holiday after 30 years' service.

DICKERING STARTS

Feb. 5, 1954—City Manager Wyatt met bargaining committee of the association to review requests.

Feb. 19—City manager met with bargaining committee. Manager said union requests would cost $83,000 a year. Informed union he was not prepared to recommend any wage increase but would recommend council agree to pay half MSA costs. Union asked about possibility of arbitration.

Early March—W. T. McLaughlin appointed by Labor Relations Board to act as conciliation officer and assist parties in negotiations.

March 25—Council advised situation deadlocked. Steps taken to proceed to conciliation board.

Early April—Conciliation board named. George A. Wilkinson, Vancouver, chairman; Lloyd G. McKenzie, city's nominee; Robert Milliken, union's nominee.

April 12—Both sides submit arguments to conciliation board.

April 13—Board hands down unanimous decision. Recommends three per cent wage increase to all but three categories of laborers for whom it recommended a flat five cent hourly increase.

April 15—Council rejects conciliation board award by vote of 7-2. In favor of rejection: Mayor, Ald. Edgewood, Mulliner, Christie, Macmillan, Murdoch, Mooney. Against: Ald. Pinfold and Dowell.

April 29—Outside workers vote to accept conciliation board award; notifies city to this effect.

May 7—Council reaffirms decision to reject conciliation board award. Ald. Macmillan reverses stand; prepared to meet 3 per cent award.

May 12—Union applies to Labor Relations Board for strike vote.

May 21—Council suggests to union that dispute be settled by arbitration.

ARBITRATION DECLINED

May 24—Executive of union declines suggestion of arbitration prior to scheduled strike vote.

May 26 and 27—Strike vote held. Result: 202 in favor of strike action; 19 against.

June 8—Union leaves strike call up to executive; members alerted to stand by for walkout at any time.

June 10—Council instructs manager to meet with union officers to find out their terms for settlement.

June 11—Manager meets with union officers. Union agrees to settle for 7 cents hourly increase plus half MSA.

June 14—Manager reports union offer to council. Council instructs he go back to union with offer of 2 per cent increase plus half MSA.

June 15—Union rejects 2 per cent offer. Council reconsiders; offers five cents an hour plus half MSA.

June 16—Union polls membership on council offer. Result: 126 to reject and 103 to accept. Strike called.

DESFOSSES FINED $100

VANCOUVER (CP)—Joseph A. Desfosses, 44, a Montreal faith healer, was fined $100 in police court Wednesday when convicted of practicing medicine illegally.

Magistrate Thomas Dohm said Desfosses appeared "dedicated to extracting monies from people who are unfortunately afflicted with disabilities."

Churchill to Call Commonwealth PM's to Talks After Meeting Ike

LONDON (AP)—Britain plans to call Commonwealth Prime Ministers to a London parley this year on the critical Asian situation, diplomatic officials said Wednesday.

Prime Minister Churchill was reported wanting Commonwealth backing for a policy that would aim to:

1. Keep the door open for a settlement with the Communists in Indo-China.
2. Define clearly the sphere of the Free World's influence and interest in Southeast Asia and the Pacific.

3. Unite with like-minded defense organization binding its members to resist Communist aggression in that sphere.

STANDARD of BRITISH COLUMBIA presents its finest gasoline achievement

At no increase in price... a new kind of motor fuel that ends forever the biggest single cause of engine trouble

World's first "Detergent-Action" gasoline

Cleans up carburetors...
first tankful stops deposits

Carburetor trouble accounts for about 30% of all engine repair work... yet, until now, no one knew their cause. Then Standard scientists discovered that tiny bits of gum, carbon and dust from engine exhaust are drawn into the carburetor. They stick there and form a ring of deposits that soon grows thick enough to choke off the engine's air supply when it's idling.

Smooths out rough idling...
ends stalling in traffic

These carburetor deposits caused engines to idle rough, lose power, waste gas, die at stop signs. But, knowing the cause, Standard scientists could perfect a cure—"Detergent-Action" gasoline. While you drive, this new kind of motor fuel cleans out carburetors in old cars, keeps them clean in new cars from the first tankful. After thousands of test miles, cars using "Detergent-Action" Chevron Supreme and Chevron Gasoline no longer stalled at stop signs; they ran smoothly, quietly.

Steps up power and cuts down gas waste

Operating costs dropped, too. One taxi fleet reported gas savings of $1200 a month. In other tests, need for carburetor repairs practically disappeared. "Detergent-Action" Chevron Gasolines eliminated all carburetor trouble except those due to mechanical causes. You can enjoy the same kind of savings in your car upkeep costs. ## Victoria Labor Men Favor Amalgamation

TLC Members Reiterate Stand, This Time To Get Standardized Traffic Regulations

Victoria labor men Wednesday night reiterated their stand in favor of amalgamation of Greater Victoria—this time as a means to solve the newest traffic problem that has bobbed up.

A member at the meeting of the Victoria Trades and Labor Council (TLC-AFL) pointed out that right-hand passing "permitted" in the city could cause motorists grief a mile and a half or so from the city centre once they got used to the habit.

"Right-hand passing is illegal outside the city limits and I can see plenty of us being ticketed for the offense in the other municipalities," he said.

The member urged that steps be taken to try and bring the outside municipalities into line on this traffic law.

"Why, this is another splendid example of the need of joining the Greater Victoria area into one unit to unify services," said David Pye (city firemen's union). He was referring to the advantages to police and fire services under a system of amalgamation.

The council endorsed this by passing a motion supporting its previous stand as a champion of amalgamation.

John Aubrey (retail clerks), however, was of the opinion the city had no right to order their police to turn a "blind eye" to right-hand passing. He could see no reason why drivers should be allowed to pass on the inside.

E. T. Staley (provincial carpenters) was of the opinion that the whole B.C. traffic rules set up should be gone over and thoroughly revised to fit modern times. "Our rules of the road date back to the days of the first horse and buggy," he claimed. Mr. Staley said his labor legislative committee would bring in a motion at the June 30 meeting recommending that the provincial government revise the traffic rules and to see that they are well advertised.

Chemainus Rotary Visits Operations Of Logging Firm

CHEMAINUS—Rotarians enjoyed a three-hour tour through MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd. logging operations following their regular dinner meeting here.

Led by logging superintendent Tom Coates, members boarded a company "crummy" to be driven to operations 23 miles behind Chemainus. They saw large stands of company timber, and had logging operations explained to them by Dave McIvor, personnel supervisor. They also were shown cold-decked logs, and new equipment in operation.

At Copper Canyon camp they inspected the former camp recreation hall that has been rebuilt as a modern machine shop.

Business Calls Tune Says Rayment

"Big business has poured $350,000 into the Social Credit Party election funds and will call the tune," Percy Rayment, secretary of the Victoria Trades and Labor Council (TLC-AFL), told members at a meeting Wednesday night.

"I don't think labor will get any favoritism under the new labor act," Mr. Rayment told members.

"When we had our first interview with Mr. Wicks (the labor minister) he said the government would be fair to both sides; favor no one," the veteran union man said.

"You can now realize after reading the new act that his mind has been changed and whether that was through generous contributions to the party fund I don't know," he said.

Mr. Rayment said he was speaking personally "for we should be allowed to draw conclusions."

"I think we (labor) are in for a bad time," he prophesied and urged the labor council to appoint a spokesman to attend union meetings and explain to locals they must approach the new act carefully or they can lose everything but their charters."

Legion WA Wants Boost in Pensions

CAMPBELL RIVER—"Unrelenting pressure" on Ottawa for increased war veterans' allowances is on the program of the women's auxiliary of the Upper Island Canadian Legion Zone Council.

The need was severe in British Columbia because 35 per cent of Canada's veterans reside in this province, the meeting of women from Nanaimo, the Alberni, Courtenay, Comox and Cumberland, was told.

Mrs. A. Damerly, Port Alberni, was elected president. Mrs. R. Thompson, Cumberland, was the choice as vice-president, and Mrs. Alma Worhaugh, Alberni, as secretary-treasurer.

Teamsters' Union Agent Charges Trained Traffic Cop 'Cast Aside'

A charge that the City of Victoria had "cast aside" a policeman they spent a lot of money to train to handle traffic problems, was levelled by Robert Milliken, teamsters' union business agent, at a labor council meeting Wednesday night.

Mr. Milliken brought up the question of Sgt. Brooke Douglass during a traffic problems discussion at the meeting of the Victoria Trades and Labor Council (TLC-AFL).

"They sent Sgt. Douglass down to a university in the eastern United States to study the latest features in traffic safety measures and he passed with high honors."

"And after spending a lot of money for this, he (Sgt. Douglass) is not being used to the best advantage of the city in the traffic picture," claimed Mr. Milliken.

He said the sergeant had not received any co-operation to put into effect what he had learned.

"Instead they put this man, what's his name?—oh, yes, Doble—to handle the job of solving our acute traffic headaches."

"and he doesn't know anything about our traffic problem here," Mr. Milliken said.

(Sgt. Douglass is head of the city police traffic department.

Several years ago he was sent to Northwestern University, Ill., traffic school, considered the world's finest to deal with modern traffic problems.)

ONTARIO FOREST FIRES UNCONTROLLED

TORONTO (BUP)—Five forest fires were reported out of control in northern Ontario today despite the round-the-clock efforts of an estimated 2,000 firefighters.

Weather bureau officials warned that no help was in sight from the weather with the prospect of an extension of the hot, dry spell which has turned thousands of acres of rich forests into a tinder box.

The largest fire was reported raging over 20,000 acres in Nakino township. Four thousand acres were burned over in Kefer township, but more than 100 men, working day and night with six bulldozers, managed to save 52 summer homes around Star Lake.

By MONTE ROBERTS

Now, that's a real commendable effort by cartoonist Stan Davidson, and should show up the photos as lazy incompetents. But tell me, Stan, what's that strange, round object in the top right-hand corner? Haven't seen the likes since I left Vancouver.

My Favorite Wife is a charter member of the Women's League for Asking Your Husband When In Doubt. (Pay No Attention To His Answers Chapter No. 1). As the following transcript will prove:

My Favorite Wife: What is all this I read in the papers about what the City Council does?

Me: What does the City Council do?

MFW: You are confused. You can only get two "does's" in one sentence in a radio commercial.

Me: (beating her to the punchline): I know, it's the does in does that does it.

MFW: Where was I?

Me: Sitting in the chair next to the fire, last time I noticed.

MFW: Thank you. Sitting. That's it.

Me: I certainly guess it most undoubtedly must be it.

MFW: Yes, the City Council is forever sitting.

Me: So, you expect them to stand up all the time? Don't you think they ever need to sit down?

MFW: Of course they do. But why do they sit on camera?

Me: (Helpless): Why do they what?

MFW: Husbands are so stupid. Why do they sit on camera? It says right here in the paper, the City Council wanted to discuss how to give away $25,000 of the taxpayers' money to charity, so they had to sit on camera.

Me: GLUE!

MFW: I'm so glad you understand my question. How could all those City Council members sit on just ONE camera? Why, even the mayor alone would need a very large camera to sit on.

Me: (Rallying). You seem to misunderstand, dear. The phrase is "IN camera, not ON camera."

MFW: Oh. But that's even harder for them. Imagine, all those city councillors squeezing IN a camera, just for a place to sit down. Surely Victoria isn't so broke we couldn't find a larger place for them to sit in.

Me: No, no, dear. When the City Council sits in camera, it doesn't mean they are sitting in a camera. It's just a phrase meaning...

MFW: (Interrupting, naturally): Meaning they want to sit FOR a camera. Of course! How silly of me! But if they want to have their pictures taken, why don't they ask one of the press photographers?

Me: Because when the City Council is in camera, representatives of the press aren't allowed to be present.

MFW: Oh, now I KNOW you're making fun of me. What's the use of sitting in camera if no cameras are allowed?

Me: I'm afraid you don't know the dictionary definition of camera which is (n.) a chamber. So when the City Council sits in camera...

MFW: It really sits in chamber?

Me: Correct.

MFW: You're sure it's in not on? ... I'm glad of that.

Me: Any more questions you wish to ask about the City Council in camera?

MFW: The answer is, negative. (That's a pun, son).

Bangtails Here Soon?

Newly proposed site for thoroughbred horse racing in the Victoria area is Western Speedway, recently constructed one-half mile dirt oval now catering to race cars. Running surface is of dirt and could be modernized to accommodate both race horses and cars. Owner Andy Cottyn revealed that he is considering converting track to suit both types of racing.

Horse Race Track Possible in Year

Change-Over at Langford Speedway Under Study

By RON COULTER

Victoria's new dirt track for car racing at Langford may be converted into a horse racing track.

This was revealed today by owner Andy Cottyn.

He told The Times serious consideration was being given to changing Western Speedway on Millstream Road into a "Sport of Kings" oval, or expanding to have both a horse racing track and hard-surfaced car racing track at the site.

Mr. Cottyn thinks the location is ideal for both.

It will be only about seven miles by road from downtown Victoria when the new Island Highway outlet is completed.

AREA IS AMPLE

And the track is situated on 60 acres of property which would be ample for car parking and stables.

While it is not isolated, it is far enough out-of-the-way so as not to bring objections from householders such as the case in the last days of the Willows track in Oak Bay.

The Willows track closed in 1948.

Since then several moves have been made for the return of horse racing to southern Vancouver Island. But none has materialized.

LOCAL FRANCHISES

In addition to holding the old Willows franchise, Sam Randall also has the old Colwood track franchise. Both have been changed in name to two practice tracks near Sidney, and both, through authority of the provincial government, have been transferred to active Vancouver tracks.

It is suggested the Western Speedway track might get one of these, or a new franchise, to bring racing back to Victoria.

Mr. Cottyn has not made any official move yet to convert the speedway into a horse track.

LARGER GRANDSTAND

He said he may wait until the end of the car racing season and in the fall start reconstruction of the grandstand.

The stands now have a 3,500 capacity.

His thought is to bring this up to 5,000 and add a roof.

The stands are so constructed to give a large area for betting and other facilities underneath.

There are good locations for construction of a clubhouse. And stable area is no problem.

ALTERNATE PLANS

The track owner suggested that both a horse racing track and a car racing track might be operated at the one location.

The car oval could be hard surfaced.

Or two separate tracks might be built on his 60-acre holdings.

This would be a much more expensive proposition, though, with grandstand construction one of the major expenses.

Mr. Cottyn said he believes a horse racing track at his location would be supported strongly by Greater Victoria citizens, and "Nothing would please me more than to get the sport going again."

Sunset Flag Rite Scheduled Until Middle of August

Sunset flag ceremonies at the Cenotaph will continue to mid-August and probably into September, it was learned today.

The tentative schedule of ceremonies and participating military bodies follows: June 18, University School Cadet Corps; June 23, Rainbow Sea Cadets; June 24, RCA (RF); June 25, Canadian Scottish Regiment (Cadets); June 29, RCA (RF); July 8, 14 and 20, RCA (RF); July 26 and 27, Royal Canadian Navy; July 29, Canadian Scottish; August 9, RCMP with band; August 10, 11 and 12, RCN.

Assembly point in all instances will be behind the old post office, with participants marching down Government Street to the Cenotaph for solemn retreat by the war memorial and flag lowering.

At the same time a plan to erect signposts to mark Greater Victoria's 35 to 40 obscure beach roads failed to win support of general membership.

Cost would have been under $100, but many members felt any such move should be up to the municipalities concerned.

Papermen Elect New Officers

Dr. Ralph Patterson, Powell River Company Ltd., today was named chairman of the Pacific Coast branch, technical section, Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, in convention here.

He succeeds J. K. Eadie, plant engineer MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd., Alberni.

Named first vice-chairman was L. Pumphrey, general superintendent Westminister Paper Company Ltd.; second vice-chairman, Howard Graham, technical supervisor, Elk Falls Company Ltd., Vancouver Island.

Hogson was elected vice-president and Charles A. Peck was returned as financial secretary and business manager. Gordon Smith was re-elected recording-secretary and Stan Sample as treasurer.

Executive board members are Arthur Rhodes, J. T. Cutting and N. G. Wilson. Delegates named to attend the international convention in Chicago starting August 30 were R. Armstrong, S. J. Bevis, Mr. Daggett and Mr. Peck.

SWIM POOL PLAN

Jaycees Drub Reporter But Confirm Story

The press came in for partial drubbing and partial support at the regular meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce Wednesday night because of a story which appeared in Wednesday's Times. The story said the chamber might move to seek a portion of the new $50,000 capital city grant to build an outdoor swimming pool.

Some members were discontented because it had not yet come up at a meeting and been passed on.

The suggestion for beautification and development of the entire Dallas Road area with an open-air swimming pool as a final touch, was aired at the meeting by Don Partridge, and after discussion, was submitted to the executive for further study.

SEVERAL RILED

But there was little doubt but that some members were riled because the newspaper had heard of the move before many members. Mr. Partridge himself at first said he felt "the premature report has killed it."

"It is unfortunate the report came out the way it did," he added.

Eric Charman said that "if the press is given a free hand to report, it is setting a dangerous precedent if allowed to get off scot-free by putting in this sort of nonsense."

Dan Darling queried: "Can the press print anything they like? If they print something contrary, they should be made to retract."

Don Cameron suggested that "perhaps the reporter concerned can give some sort of explanation."

He was met by cries of "shut up," "sit down," and "no, no."

"FINE IDEA"

Don Smith termed the entire outdoor swim pool "a darned fine idea."

"Where a reporter gets his information is his business," Smith said, "and I think the matter should be dropped, though personally I think the press should be congratulated for taking up this problem. There was nothing detrimental about the story."

Alf Heaslip pointed out it was chamber policy to clear all items for publication with the president or executive before informing the newspapers. He said, however, he felt the article put Jaycees on the spot before we were more or less implicated.

"QUITE FEASIBLE"

An outdoor swimming pool in the area would be "quite feasible," with the sun allowed to warm the sea waters in the pool enclosure. "It had worked elsewhere, he said, notably at Brighton in England."

At the same time a plan to erect signposts to mark Greater Victoria's 35 to 40 obscure beach roads failed to win support of general membership.

Cost would have been under $100, but many members felt any such move should be up to the municipalities concerned.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—Can you tell me who the present governor of Alaska is?

—B.C.

A.—B. Frank Heintzleman. He took office after Ernest Gruening, a Democrat, whose four-year term expired in April, 1953.

Q.—France again is without a government parliament will uphold. What was the shortest time a government of France was in office?—H.W.A.

A.—The cabinet headed by Premier Alexandre Ribot was defeated June 12, 1914, in the first division in the new Chamber of Deputies. It had been in office one day. That is believed the shortest life for a cabinet in the history of republican France. It is difficult to comprehend how a government could be in power less than a day, as for long it has been the practice for a new premier to take his cabinet before the chamber the day after it is sworn into office, or a day soon thereafter. Available records do not disclose if any other government equalled Ribot's for brevity.

Black Maria Thieves Pay $75 for Fun

Penitent Sailors Nervous in Court

Two sailors who were captured after a wild night ride in a police patrol wagon which they had brazenly driven from the police garage early Wednesday, were each fined $75 in city police court today.

"We realize now that it was a very silly and stupid trick—it was the first time I will never happen again," said Kenneth Jack Hughes, 21, of HMCS Ontario. He and his companion, Joseph Maurice Champoux, HMCS Naden, pleaded guilty Wednesday to taking a car without the owner's consent.

Magistrate H. C. Hall asked Hughes, who had been identified by police as the driver of the patrol wagon, whether he thought he should pay for the offense.

"Yes," said Hughes with a nervous grin.

"Seventy-five dollars or 10 days," said the magistrate.

The pair were arrested near the roundabout after a chase which involved seven other police cars and after three warning shots had been fired. The patrol wagon was undamaged.

6 City Pubs Get Licenses

The first public beer parlor licenses to be issued since the new Liquor Act went into operation were approved for six Victoria hotels Wednesday.

The six will also be the first beer parlors in the city limits since the "saloon" days, prior to prohibition.

Hotels for which the public house licenses have been approved are: Westholme Hotel, 1411 Government; Drake Hotel, 1405 Store; Churchill Hotel, 1140 Government; St. James Hotel, 642 St. James; Kings Hotel, 518 Yates Street; and the Douglas Hotel, 1450 Douglas.

Liquor Commissioner Col. D. McGugan said the public house licenses will not be issued to the hotels until renovations are completed, and the premises brought up to liquor act requirements.

Hotel owners say they should be ready to open within two or three months. Some have extensive renovation programs estimated at up to $50,000 planned.

The pubs will serve beer, ale and stout, and must stock light refreshments, soft drinks, pretzels, sandwiches and other snacks.

Television, music and radio will be allowed in all six beer parlors.

There's Still Time for Vegetable Planting

To answer the many questions on when to sow or plant out vegetables the following list has been prepared.

The dates stated are average over the entire southern end of Vancouver Island. Some adjustment will be necessary to suit individual localities and seasonal conditions.

are sown during May and June, and plants of tomato, marrow and squash are set out at the same time.

Dwarf beans can be sown from May to July, and broccoli (heading and sprouting) and Savoy cabbage plants set out. Kale and Brussels sprouts go out during June and July.

Lettuce may be sown from February until May, and again in September. Summer varieties are sown from June until August, and winter lettuce, for heading the following March, in September. Lettuce plants are set out from March on.

Successional sowings of carrots and chard are made from March until August, endive from May until August, and spinach from February until June. New Zealand spin-ach is sown during May for the summer supply.

The latest date for setting out onion plants is the end of May; melons and outdoor cucumbers go outside in late June. Leeks can be transplanted from April until July.

Peas, using early and late varieties, are sown from December through July, and beet in succession from April until August.

Pickets Signal Strike Opening

Civic outside workers set up two-man picket teams at strategic points this morning as the strike against the city got under way. At the main city yards, Garbally Road, a privately-owned truck honored the picket line.

Driver refused to drive in, but left truck and entered on foot. Meanwhile, "inside" workers were at their desks in the yard, carrying on business as usual despite the strike. (Times Photos by Halkett.)

Most concern expressed by citizens as outside workers strike opened today was over solution to problem of garbage disposal. Garbage truck and workmen were idle, and the scows at the city's garbage wharf (above), were empty, instead of brimful as they usually are each morning.

SCENIC ISLAND SPOTS DEVELOPED

Big Campsite Program Planned

The Parks and Recreation branch of the provincial government plans an extensive program of campsite and picnic site construction on Vancouver Island this summer.

Major project is the expansion of Miracle Beach Park, between Campbell River and Courtenay, where an additional 65 campsites will be installed.

Opened for the first time last summer, the park, with the only known white sand beach on the east coast of the Island, was jammed throughout the season.

Parks branch officials said today they plan an additional 150-car parking space at the park, to bring its capacity to 300. A total of 120 campsites will be available.

Another development will be the construction of new picnic sites at Stamp Falls Park, seven miles from Alberni, where a one mile access road will be built. Parking for 60 cars will be

Save Your Coffee Table With Inexpensive Pads!

By PENNY SAVER

I don't blame you for drawing a deep breath every time a guest picks up that cute figurine which sits on your brand new shiny coffee table!

Who knows what'll happen when it is put down again? If the guest is the careful type, you may get away with a faint scratch, but if not, you'll probably end up with a badly gouged coffee table.

Now this is a serious problem. You don't want to leave the table without ornamentation and then again, you don't want to have to clutter it up by putting a lacy doily beneath the figurine.

What to do?

Why, the simplest solution is to buy a packet of little green felt protection pads which stick to the bottom on the figurine, thus relieving you of all worry. The figurine can't possibly scratch if it's padded this way.

The pads require no moistening. Just unstuck them from the backing they're on when you buy them, and press the sticky side to the figurine. These wonder pads can also be used on lamps, ash trays, vases or anything that is capable of scratching your best living room furniture.

You pay 35 cents for a packet of 24 protection pads.

Another table-saver is a small absorbent circular pad of paper to place a glass on to catch the drips. Not only are the pads helpful in this way, but they are also very attractive. Ones I spotted yesterday were white with an oriental design in Chinese blue printed on them. . . . Ming trees, willows, quaint bridges and houses with turned-up roofs are all included in the pattern. A set of pads costs 25 cents.

You might as well make things match up by using serviettes of the same pattern. They come in the regular size for 25 cents, or in the smaller, cocktail-size for 20 cents.

A tricky porcelain cactus is complete with tiny holes for you to fill with colored toothpicks and presto! It's bristling with spines. Obvious thing to do now is place a pickle on the tip of each. The cactus costs $1.65.

Nursing Home Auxiliary Realizes $1,100 at Party

Colorful pennants, streamers and balloons decorated grounds of Victoria Nursing Home yesterday afternoon to create an atmosphere of gaiety for the garden party of the Women's Auxiliary to the home. Hundreds of guests shopped at the many stalls, inspected the new addition to the home and enjoyed tea served beneath a colorful marquee. Background music was played by a seven-piece orchestra conducted by P. Richardson and donated by the musical recording group of the Local Musicians' Union. The auxiliary realized a sum of $1,100 at the successful fete.

Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett opened the affair at 2 p.m. She was introduced by the auxiliary president, Mrs. C. C. Warren, who also welcomed guests. Entertainment was provided by young dancers of Adeline Duncan. Bagpipe accompaniments were played by Jamie Troy. Alderman Mrs. Margaret Christie was a special guest.

In charge of general tea arrangements was Mrs. J. Kolb. Convener of decorations and the serving of tea was Miss Verna Beek. Serviteurs were Mrs. M. Stewart, Mrs. C. Harris, Mrs. W. Geddes, Mrs. G. Main, Mrs. M. Johnson, Mrs. H. Hughes, Mrs. C. Wilkinson, Miss Alice

White-Tonin Wedding in Army Chapel

In the chapel at Work Point Barracks, Carmen Mary Tonin exchanged vows recently with John Howard Raymond White. Rev. J. A. Roberts read the wedding service for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tonin of Medicine Hat and the son of Mrs. White, Salt Spring Island, and H. White, Vancouver.

The bride wore a gown of white nylon net and lace with fitted bodice, long sleeves and bouffant skirt. Her long net veil was held with a white coronet and she carried red roses and white carnations.

Mrs. George L. Joynton, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, chose mauve nylon net with short veil held with a bandeau of matching flower. She carried a colonial bouquet of mauve and pink posies.

Best man was Earl Inglis, and the ushers, Floyd Adams and Westly Goddard. The bride was given away by her brother-in-law, G. L. Joynton.

A reception was held at the home of Mrs. Louise Resteau, where Floyd Adams proposed a toast to the bride. Among the guests were the groom's brother and sister, Miss Donna White and Frank White.

One of the rules the fashionable woman adheres strictly to is dressing to her type. Don't worry about trying to determine the type people may think you are; groom to suit the way you feel about yourself.

Between Ourselves

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Flo Chadwick, the girl who plans to swim the Straits of Juan de Fuca, between Victoria and Port Angeles, in early August, is just completing a cross-country tour of the United States on which she has been sponsoring and talking about glamorous bathing suits.

She's been talking about 'em. She admires 'em. But she doesn't wear 'em. At least, not when she is racing against time or setting records in swimming the English Channel, the Strait of Gibraltar, the Bosphorus, the Hellespont, or for that matter our own Juan de Fuca.

For this specialized kind of swimming Flo Chadwick wears, to quote her own words, "sack looking suits, cut high in front and back that make me look like grandma."

She writes that these suits are made from black silk jersey, weigh about a quarter of a pound and are worn with goggles, a bathing cap pulled down over the ears and pounds of body grease that makes her look like "a vision from Mars."

To top it all off, the famous swimmer explains that she turns the bathing suit INSIDE OUT so that the seam edges are away from the body.

Then she says—and you can almost hear a quick laugh coming from the pen-written words... "Can you imagine anything less glamorous?"

Don't run away with the idea that Flo wears this old-fashioned type of suit from choice... it's from necessity. If she had her choice it would be a tailored elastic suit, cut low in back to leave plenty of room for her well-developed back muscles. It would be built for action, not sunning, of course and it would have cross straps at the back. A well-known firm has named just such a swim suit for her.

Her favorite color is green... not black. Although her tour across the country keeps her busy during the day, Flo swims constantly. Before retiring she swims from three to four hours in a pool. In place of swimming the length of the pool... she tells you she'd soon get dizzy going back and forth... she ties a rope around her waist and the other end to the diving tower. She pulls against the rope constantly and in this way gets the same effect as the strong current of the channel... or our straits.

In her letter she writes, "Mary Martin may have set a hair-washing record during her appearance in South Pacific, but I'm running her a close second. The chlorine in pools can ruin hair so I shampoo my short locks every other day. I have to get a permanent every four months."

On the tour Flo Chadwick has been telling women that to insure a comfortable fit they should test their swim suits in fitting rooms by moving their arms and taking a squatting position.

For those interested in swimming careers, Florence has this to suggest: "Practice on form first. After that, work on speed. Distance swimmers must have speed to get through strong currents quickly."

"Then, it's just a question of work. Near the time for a swim, I try to average three or four hours daily. I train strenuously for six months before every distance attempt."

Some day the trim, dark-haired, dark-eyed swimmer says she will retire from churning the waterways. Then she wants to establish a string of schools teaching her swimming method. Flo Chadwick is expected to arrive in Victoria on July 1, and from then until she swims the straits in early August, she'll be in strict training.

you may see her in a green bathing suit... cut low in back and with the crossed straps... But not when she slips into the water for the final effort.

Then it will be the old black jersey, with goggles and body grease. No glamour... just common sense!

Miss MacLaren will leave again on the midnight boat for Vancouver.

Also visiting St. John headquarters today is Miss Bourbonnais, provincial nursing officer for Quebec province. Miss Bourbonnais is bilingual and has been with St. John for a year. Sponsored by the IODE and with proceeds to be used for furnishings of the sunroom in the new wing at Victoria Nursing Home, Miss Wynne Shaw will present her students in a dance revue, "Our Stars of Tomorrow," at Royal Theatre, Monday at 8.15 p.m. The three young dancers at left, Linda Travis, Sharon Williams and Judy Fraser, will appear as the magic figures on a birthday cake in the opening number, "The Happy Birthday." Dancers at the right, Arlene Atkinson, Pamela Dixon, Gillian Pearson and Carole Phillips, are in a court scene with 16 other dancers that opens the second half of the program. There will be tap dances, mazurkas, ballet and specialty numbers. Costumes, made by mothers of the young dancers, are rich and colorful.

Soroptimist Officers Installed at Banquet

Miss Marion Storey was installed president of Soroptimist Club of Greater Victoria, following a banquet in the private dining room at the Poodle Dog, Wednesday evening.

Other officers are Mrs. Nan Pohl and Mrs. Margaret Dockrill, first and second vice-president; Mrs. Sara Clarke, recording secretary; Miss Elsie Richards, treasurer; Miss Ella Walker, Mrs. Clarke and Mrs. Ann Pearson, directors.

Installing officer was Mrs. Lena Martin, Nanaimo, member of the regional board. The ceremony was conducted with candles representing Soroptimist objectives, tolerance, sincerity, wisdom, friendship and service.

Deep blue candles in Queen Anne silver candelabra and an arrangement of yellow lilies, decorated the head table where retiring president Mrs. Mary Stevenson presided. Seated with her were Miss Ethel Bruce, guest speaker; Mrs. Martin; Miss Violet Ellismore, president of the Bilston Club in England; Mrs. Bessie Smith, president of Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club, and Miss Storey.

Toast to the Queen was given by Miss Walker; toast to the international federation by Mrs. Pohl, and to the guests by Miss Marjorie Harwood, with the reply by Miss Ellismore. Soloist and accompanist was Mrs. T. Dixon. Mrs. A. M. Robertson was in charge of banquet arrangements. Following the installation ceremony Miss Walker presented Mrs. Stevenson with her past president's pin.

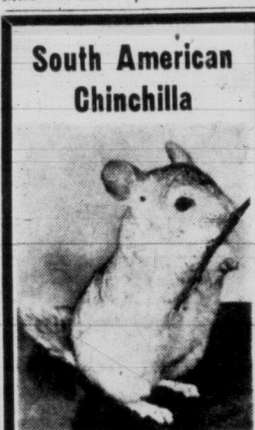

The place of groups in human society, their functions and power for good or evil, was subject of a very interesting talk given by Miss Bruce, who recently completed a world tour by air.

She described work of the Associated Countrywomen of the World and the rest homes for rural women this group has organized in New Zealand; told of the flying medical service in Australia that has brought comfort to women in isolated places.

The speaker told of family life in Java "where you find groups within groups" and of the women's groups in Ceylon who have sponsored a rural development movement for improving methods of farming. Power of a group for good was again stressed in Miss Bruce's short word sketches of the Council of Women and the YWCA in Bombay, the co-operative groups in Israel and the industrial groups in Cyprus. She was thanked at conclusion of her talk by Mrs. Robertson.

St. John Ambulance Work Great Help to Industry

Workmen's Compensation Board figures show that safety pays off in dollars. The forest industry, for example, cut accidents to workers in half after an intensive safety campaign and were rewarded with a greatly reduced levy for compensation.

WCB safety director W. Thompson says that in B.C. such a campaign is set up simply and at little cost.

"The board," he says, "in conjunction with the St. John Ambulance have two experts who do nothing but travel the province, teaching industrial and elementary first aid."

"It costs $25 for a three-month industrial course and nothing for the elementary course," Mr. Thompson said. "After one man has been taught, he in turn can become an instructor for the company. Teaching first aid is an economical way of saving lives and money."

PROVINCE COVERED

At present, Ken Carpenter, veteran St. John Ambulance instructor, is teaching a class in the Prince George area. He next moves to the Clinton-Williams Lake area for another three-month course.

Douk Granted Third Trial on Explosives Charge

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—A third trial was ordered Wednesday night for Nick Evdokimoff, Son of Freedom Doukhobor charged with being in possession of an explosive with intent to cause property damage.

A Supreme Court jury failed to reach a verdict after three and one-half hours' deliberation on conflicting testimony of witnesses and Mr. Justice J. V. Clynne put the trial down to the end of the Spring Assizes here. The jury was dismissed.

It was the second trial on the charge. Evdokimoff was tried at the Fall Assizes here in 1953 and was sentenced by Mr. Justice A. M. Manson to a maximum 14 years concurrent.

He won an appeal from this sentence in Vancouver earlier this year and was granted a new trial.

High Status for Realtors Predicted

Irvin Davis, secretary of the B.C. Real Estate Agents' Licensing Board, predicted Wednesday that the real estate profession would be as respected as the legal and medical professions in 10 years.

It would be due, he thought, to work being done by the board, a non-governmental organization. He spoke before a luncheon meeting of the Victoria Real Estate Board at the Empress Hotel.

Part of the board's work includes correspondence courses offered to real estate salesmen, who must be passed before a government license is granted. Another major function is interpretation of the B.C. Real Estate Act, said Mr. Davis.

Inquiries as to how the board functions have been received from points as distant as California, Texas, Iowa and Nebraska, the speaker said.

Ship Service May Resume

OTTAWA (CP) — Transport Minister Chevrier said Wednesday the maritime commission is reconsidering the granting of a subsidy to the CPR to enable the company to again operate a steamship service on British Columbia's Arrow Lakes.

The CPR withdrew its Arrow Lakes steamer the Minto from service April 24 because of operating losses. The government considered granting a subsidy of $60,000 a year to the company but decided against taking the action.

H. W. Herridge, CCF, Kootenay West, said in the Commons that the British Columbia government has announced that negotiations are in progress with the maritime commission about a joint subsidy being granted by the federal and British Columbia governments.

NO ALIMONY, HE SAYS, JUST 100 GRAND CASH

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — Actor Lex Barker Wednesday turned down an offer of $10,000 a year alimony for 10 years from his move star wife, Susan Hayward.

Barker, speaking through his attorney, S. S. Hahn, said: "I don't think a man should take alimony from a woman under any circumstances."

Hahn said the $100,000 figure would be acceptable in a lump sum.

Meanwhile, Martin Gang, counsel for the actress, reiterated that no settlement is pending and that trial of her contested divorce suit will resume today in superior court.

Barker is contesting Miss Hayward's divorce suit.

'NEVER WAS A DOPE'

'Reynolds Joined 30 Fronts I Joined One', Pegler Says

NEW YORK (AP) — Columnist Westbrook Pegler testified Wednesday that he once joined an organization which he later regretted. He described it as "the Friends of Democracy" but did not describe its aims.

"They were a lot of high-binders," Pegler said, adding that he ordered his name taken off the letterhead when he reached this conclusion.

Testifying during Quentin Reynolds' $500,000 libel suit against him, Pegler was questioned by Reynolds' lawyer, Louis Nizer, on the plaintiff's claim that a Pegler column had ascribed pro-Communist tendencies to Reynolds.

Nizer put on the record Pegler's pre-trial testimony in 1950 when he was discussing various organizations to which Reynolds allegedly belonged. At that time Pegler said: "No, I don't say he is not loyal and patriotic, I say he is a big dope."

NEVER A "DOPE"

When Pegler, under Nizer's questioning, admitted his past membership in "The Friends of Democracy," Reynolds' counsel asked: "How long was it before you discovered you were a dope?"

"I never was a dope," Pegler replied. "I didn't say I was. He, Reynolds, joined 30. I joined one."

Asked whether he ever joined any organizations which he later considered Communist, Pegler answered: "No... oh, yes, the Newspaper Guild."

'Copter Shuttle Run For London Area

LONDON (AP) — Helicopters hovered over the heart of London today and landed on the south bank of the Thames, starting something new in British aviation.

The new freight shuttle is a prelude to a helicopter passenger service which British European Airways plans to institute next March between downtown Waterloo station to London airport, 15½ miles away.

Bridge Mishap Does $30,000 Damage to Ship

VANCOUVER (CP) — Damage to the freighter Bonanza, which Tuesday smashed into the Second "Narrows" Bridge here, is estimated at $30,000.

In Burrard dry dock, the modern Norwegian freighter showed two jagged holes where steel girders and concrete had ripped into the port side.

J. R. McMillan, western region vice-president of the CNR, said damage to the bridge is very serious. An engineer said it might be unusable for many weeks.

A diver was unsuccessful Wednesday in inspecting the concrete piers of the bridge.

Jack Collins, flown from Victoria by Pacific Salvage Ltd., was lowered at 12.54 p.m., estimated slack water time. The surface water was calm but Collins was swept onto his back by the strong sub-surface current.

Exact extent of damage to the bridge will remain until Collins completes his survey.

RCMP Scour Kootenays For 20 Douk Children

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — RCMP searched the Grand Forks area of the Kootenays Wednesday for 20 Doukhobor Freedomite children missing from Gilpin.

The children were missing in the morning when police arrived to serve the parents with school attendance summonses.

They are believed to have been moved from the Sons of Freedom sect village this week and now may be concealed in other colonies in the West Kootenays.

This latest development in the running battle between the government and the fanatical sect follows instructions from the attorney-general's department to bring parents to trial for refusing to send their children to school.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

FRIDAY, JUNE 18, 1954

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)

Making sure you keep abreast of the latest in power, or in any work with general public, assures you that likely detrimental comments cannot be made. Support those in power who deserve it.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)

Getting away from tedious toil as soon as your basic duty has been accomplished gives you chance to see where in you have missed some modern methods for lightening your burdens. Drive, walk carefully.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)

Showing others your devotion for them by some simple means rather than extravagant temporary delight makes them aware of your solid, secure qualities. Be adroit.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21)

Making a special point to keep confused personalities from your home, environment saves some discontent that could follow and hold up plans. Side-step all arguments.

LEO (July 22 to August 21)

Use much care on highway as well as with clothing, utilities, etc., to prevent some accidental condition otherwise possible; replace that temptation to make sarcastic comment by praising others' best points.

VIRGO (August 22 to September 22)

Money matters vex greatly, so take your mind off them, give them chance to work themselves out a bit; take in some inexpensive pleasure with long-satisfying pal, so tensions dissolve.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22)

Your thinking Friday's child is one of those very ingenious youngsters who will always be trying to work an angle to get things done the way he or she wants to have them. So make it a point early to encourage right sort of direct action that will take away from any tendency to be devious, or get confused in all the various angles involved. Your interesting child has a strong love of home and family—would be a good chart for vocations connected with practical part of such interests—such as real estate, financing, etc.

Gash Weeps With Joy On Escaping Gallows

Vancouver Murderer Scheduled to Die Tuesday Has Sentence Commuted to Life

(From CP and BUP Dispatches)

VANCOUVER—William Wakefield Gash, 19-year-old convicted killer, shed tears of joy Wednesday when told his death sentence had been commuted to life imprisonment.

BONNY BONNER

A-G Sees Own Child Born on TV

VANCOUVER (CP)—Attorney-General Robert Bonner of B.C. today watched the birth of his daughter, Elizabeth.

He sat among 900 doctors, including some of Canada's leading obstetricians, at the Canadian Medical Association convention to watch delivery of the baby by caesarean operation.

They watched the delivery over a giant colored TV screen. The delivery was at the Vancouver General Hospital, two miles away. Actual delivery of the baby took 10 minutes.

It was not known at the convention hall until after the operation that the mother was Mrs. Bonner.

The mother and the eight-pound-one-ounce baby are in good condition. It was Mrs. Bonner's third child.

Ottawa Man Named CO (Air) Magnificent

OTTAWA (CP)—Lt.-Col. Victor J. Wilgress, 33, of Ottawa, has been appointed commander in chief of the aircraft carrier Magnificent, naval headquarters announced today.

Wilgress, who will hold the acting rank of commander, is the son of L. Dana Wilgress, Canada's permanent delegate to the North Atlantic Council in Paris.

V.I. Cafe Licensed

A dining room liquor license for Empire Cafe at Port Alberni was approved by B.C. Liquor Control Board Wednesday.

CHARLOTTE WHITTON HAS A BAD DAY

Mayor Miffed By Machine, Army, Finance Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—By all reports, Mayor Charlotte Whitton had a bad day.

Chief trouble involved municipal grants from the federal government, army ceremonial protocol, and a dictaphone machine.

First, Finance Minister Abbott announced postponement until next fall of plans to increase federal grants to municipalities in lieu of taxes. He said the delay would not bring hardship to the cities because the proposed legislation would not be effective until next January 1 in any case.

But the mayor said the legislation had been forecast in the throne speech and therefore the postponement meant revoking the promise of the Queen. The amendments, she calculated, would increase to more than $2,000,000 from $1,400,000 the city's grants.

Another report said Miss Whitton was miffed by an army ruling that she doesn't qualify to take the salute at a march-past of Ottawa's Cameron Highlanders. This was to have been part of the ceremonies in a civil centenary celebration July 1. But the army informed the committee in charge of celebrations that the honor of taking the salute is reserved for the Queen, her official representatives, the national defense minister and senior army officers. That was about all, except for the dictaphone machine. The mayor dictated a stormy memo into the gadget about the municipal grants, and the machine "blew up." It refused to play back to her worship what she had put on the record.

FAST RELIEF FOR RHEUMATIC PAIN

Victoria Daily Times 25 THURSDAY, JUNE 17, 1954

YOU THOUGHT TB WAS COLD, SAYS BRITON

VANCOUVER (CUP)—Probably every mature person in Canada has contracted tuberculosis during his life, without knowing it, Sir Howard Florey, famed British physician, said Wednesday in an interview at the Canadian Medical Association convention here. It was probably classed as a cold at the time.

He said that contrary to the belief that TB is a climatic disease, there is no geographic connection and it still remains the most prevalent bacterial disease in the world.

Gash was convicted March 18 of the bludgeoning slaying of Frank Pitsch, 45-year-old golf ball shagger. Pitsch's battered body was found Dec. 12 on the 13th fairway of Langara golf course here.

The all-male jury which convicted Gash made a strong recommendation for leniency. A petition bearing 7,500 names was forwarded to Justice Minister Stuart Garson begging him to commute the death sentence.

Mrs. Gash said she would care for her year-old son and the baby she expects next month, and added wistfully that "maybe some day Bill will get out of jail and will have learned a useful trade."

"I love Bill," she said, "no matter what he has done."

Fishing at Brentwood On Air Chief's Agenda
BRENTWOOD—Air Marshal C. R. Slemmon, Royal Canadian Air Force chief, plans to spend two or three days fishing and relaxing at Brenta Lodge resort here, following his visit to Victoria next week. Accompanied by Mrs. Slemmon and his staff officer, Sqdn. Ldr. Durston, he is expected here June 22.

During his coast visit the air force chief will inspect the RCAF stations at Patricia Bay and Comox.

If You Never Made Grade As Fireman—Be a 'Buff'

EDMONTON (CP)—Memo to folk who stand around and gape as firemen battle big blazes: Be a "buff."

That's the advice of Jimmy Arnott, Toronto representative for a fire equipment company. He's a buff himself, and he told the Alberta Fire Chiefs' convention here Wednesday all about it.

A buff, said Jimmy, is a frustrated fireman who gets a good deal of fun out of life by helping professionals douse a fire. Jimmy is a member of Toronto's Box 12 Association, a volunteer troupe of buffs who attend all major fires to serve coffee, give first aid and do other chores for the firemen.

He hopes to spark the formation of other buff societies in Edmonton, Calgary and other Alberta centres.

From a three-man beginning in 1948, said Jimmy, Box 12 now has 20 members aged between 25 and 72. They operate in a truck equipped with a coffee urn and other useful gear, bought out of money raised by Toronto firemen.

The buffs are notified of all except one-alarm calls and have passes through fire lines.

Pupils' Puppets Delight at Sooke

SOOKE—Highlight of the regular meeting of the Sooke-Milnes Landing PTA was the presentation of a series of puppet plays by the pupils of Grade 7 under the direction of Mr. R. Newman. Not only were the hand puppets, the theatre and scenery designed and constructed by the students, but the plays too were written by them, and all productions had a delightful spontaneity.

Mrs. G. S. Oliver of the Jordan River PTA reported on the 32nd PTA convention held in Vancouver last month and which she attended as a delegate.

Rayment, Gooderham To Attend TLC Parley

Percy Rayment, secretary of the Victoria Trades and Labor Council (TLC-AFL), was the unanimous choice of members Wednesday night as council delegate to attend the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada conference to open in Regina Aug. 23. Another Victorian who will likely attend the national annual parley is Thomas Gooderham, congress' Pacific Coast region representative.

Labor Act Scored As 'Big Business'

VLC Secretary Charges New Regulations Will Smash Wage Structure of Workers

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dismissal of the Labor Relations Board and proclamation of the new labor act Wednesday have stirred up a hornet's nest among B.C. labor leaders.

Vic Forster, secretary of the Vancouver Labor Council (CCL), charged that the new act is "the preparation of big business to smash the wage structure of the working people."

He accused Premier Bennett of being a "front man for the combines and multi-million-dollar trusts." Mr. Forster also complained that labor has not been consulted in selecting representatives for a new board.

Tom Alsbery, president of the Vancouver Trades and Labor Council, echoed the query about board replacements. He said firing of the board "at the whim of the minister" will make men hesitant about accepting the $20-a-day job.

Mr. Alsbery warned that the new labor act is "going to make it very difficult for labor to carry on its legitimate activities legally."

A threat that the "unfair features of the bill will be circumvented until it becomes effective" came from George Mitchell, secretary-treasurer of B.C. District Council of the CCL International Woodworkers of America. He said: "A law is only a law as long as it has the people's respect."

"The new members will be puppets on the end of a string," he said. "If they don't dance, the minister will eliminate them."

R. K. Gervin, secretary of the Trades and Labor Council, TLC, said: "I hope we'll never be pushed to the place where we can't abide by the law."

Like the other labor leaders, he praised the dismissed Labor Board and said they did "wonderful work." He called the dismissal "shortsighted."

George Home, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labor, and one of the four fired from the board, said the new act is a threat to the freedom-loving people of British Columbia.

First Woman Is Appointed

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks today appointed a new five-member labor relations board which will be headed by Deputy Labor Minister W. H. Sands.

The new board will take up its duties immediately to replace a board which was dismissed Wednesday with the proclamation of the Labor Relations Act.

For the first time in Canadian history a woman will be a member of such a board. She is Mrs. Fraudena Eaton of Deep Cove, near Vancouver.

The other members are: H. J. Young, G. A. Little and Charles Murdoch, all of Vancouver.

All five are also on the Board of Industrial Relations, which administers the Hours of Work Act, the Male and Female Minimum Wage Act and other B.C. labor legislation.

ONE BOARD

Their appointments to the Labor Relations Board will completely eliminate duplication in the labor department, as there will be only one board instead of two as previously.

Former members of the Labor Relations Board were D'Arcy Baldwin, C. A. P. Muri-son, Fred Smelt, George Home and Jim Barton.

ONE LABOR MAN

The former board was made up of two management representatives, two labor representatives and Mr. Baldwin, the chairman. Only one labor representative, Charles Murdoch, is on the new board.

He is vice-president of Division 101, Street Railwaymen's Union, and a delegate to the Vancouver Trades and Labor Council. Mr. Murdoch was appointed to the Board of Industrial Relations in December, 1953.

ACTIVE WOMAN

Mrs. Eaton has been active in women's organizations for many years and is vice-president, National Council of Women, past president, Provincial Council of Women, Vice-President, United Nations Association in Canada, and the Canadian Association of Adult Education. Recently she received the Gairnet Sedgewick Memorial Award for outstanding contributions to civil liberty.

Mr. Young is former president of Vulcan Iron-Works Ltd., and is past president of the Pacific Northwest Conference of Executive Associations.

Mr. Little, educated at Nainimo, is a career civil servant who currently is regional supervisor, mainland offices of the Department of Labor. He has been a member of the Board of Industrial Relations since 1951.

Entire Viet Minh Division Infiltrates Delta Area

HANOI, Indo-China (UP)—The French high command reported today that an entire division of 8,000 to 10,000 Communist Viet Minh troops has infiltrated the heart of the Red River Delta area.

The high command said the combat-hardened regulars had filtered into the rice-field region in the Ninth Binh-Nam Dinh area some 50 miles south of Hanoi.

These troops now are added to the estimated 100,000-man fifth column of regulars and guerrillas which Red Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap has working for him in the delta.

Wheat Price Announcement Later—Howe

OTTAWA — Trade Minister Howe said today that the initial price to be paid for this year's western wheat crop will not be announced until the latter part of July.

He told the Commons there is no purpose in making an earlier announcement of the initial price for the 1954-55 crop year which starts Aug. 1. The current initial price is $1.40 a bushel.

Howe denied vigorously today that he or the cabinet had "dictated" the decision to the Canadian wheat board to cut prices 10½ cents a bushel last week.

The decision, he said, was made by the wheat board as representatives of the grain growers of the western provinces. It was announced first in Winnipeg by the board, and then by him in the House of Commons.

The trade minister heatedly denied statements by D. S. Harkness (PC, Calgary North) who said that wheat board policy was dictated by the government.

OTTAWA (CP)—The government's wheat-marketing policy was sustained Wednesday against two motions of want-of-confidence.

Members voted 137 to 58 to defeat a Progressive Conservative motion and 168 to 26 against a C.C.F. motion.

City May Hire Others to Keep Work Going

Council Questions Walkout Legality: Labor Minister Asked for Guidance

City Council is questioning legality of the outside civic workers' strike which started at 8 a.m. today, paralyzing city services.

At an emergency meeting at noon, it was decided that the whole of the council, led by the mayor, would visit Labor Minister Lyle Wicks this afternoon and ask for a ruling.

Alderman Willard Mooney raised the question.

It was thought that under the new Labor Relations Act proclaimed by the provincial cabinet Wednesday the strike of 250 workers may be illegal.

Also on Ald. Mooney's suggestion, council voted 7 to 2 in favor of employing "people he requires to carry on essential services of the city."

The mayor said the suggestion was "quite in order" and the vote was taken with Aldermen Robert Macmillan and Frank Mulliner dissenting.

Alderman McMillan asked: "Are you not treading on dangerous ground so far as strike-breaking is concerned. Do you expect men to go out and cross picket lines?"

The mayor replied: "The purpose of the motion is to employ men to carry on the work of the city."

Earlier in the meeting the mayor asked if there really was a strike, since he had not received anything in writing.

Municipal manager Cecil Wyatt told him: "There definitely is a strike."

He said notice had been given verbally.

The mayor called for "official notification."

He said neither he or the clerk had anything in writing.

The council ratified terms of settlement with its inside staff. Alderman Macmillan was the

Strike Vote Carries 126 to 103

The outside workers, who number 250, made their strike effective first thing this morning after voting 126 to 103 Wednesday afternoon to reject a last-minute offer from City Council to provide a five-cent-an-hour increase, half the cost of MSA coverage, a shorter work week for bridge operators with no change in pay, and a slightly higher wage adjustment for garbage truck drivers classified as "Sanivani men."

Difference between the council's offer and the terms which the union sought at the time of the strike was two cents an hour.

The union has since reverted to original demands for wage parity with Vancouver, which would mean an average increase of 19 cents an hour.

Outside workers' union notified the city last Friday that the lowest it would go would be seven cents an hour. Council rejected that on Monday, countering with an offer of a 2 per cent increase. The five-cent offer was put forward by council's representatives Wednesday morning and voted upon in the afternoon.

Inside workers, who number about 140, settled Wednesday night on a three-point proposal. They get a 2 per cent across-the-board increase, half the cost of MSA coverage, and service pay of five cents per day for every five years' service.

This is less than the conciliation board award which was brought down in April inasmuch as the board recommended a 3 per cent increase and the other two provisions.

The switch over from the ICA Act to the new Labor Relations Act means that the Saanich employees will be required to give council 48 hours' advance notice of its strike deadline.

It took no formal action there. A meeting was scheduled for (Continued on Page 24)

Saanich Strike Vote Under New Act

A strike vote of Saanich municipal employees will be conducted under the Labor Relations Act which was proclaimed Wednesday, the provincial labor department said today.

The department indicated the new labor board is expected to consider the application of the Saanich municipal employees for a strike vote within the next few days.

The switch over from the ICA Act to the new Labor Relations Act means that the Saanich employees will be required to give council 48 hours' advance notice of its strike deadline.

NEW PLAN AT GENEVA

Mendes-France Promises Peace In Indo-China or Resignation

PARIS (UP)—Pierre Mendes-France, making his bid for investiture as premier of France, today promised to obtain an Indo-China cease-fire within four weeks or resign, if he is made head of the French government.

The premier-designate also promised to bring before the assembly by June the long stalled and highly controversial European Army Plan which would rearm Germans as units of a continental defense force.

The premier-designate was given only a slim chance of approval by the national assembly.

GENEVA (UP)—France blocked an end to the Geneva peace conference today by formally proposing the establishment of a nine-nation commission to deal with the Indo-China issue.

The proposal was contained in notes sent to the delegations of the other eight nations suggested for the commission.

The plan proposed that the

'ALICE-IN-WONDERLAND' DRUG 'DWARFS' USERS

LONDON (Reuters)—An "Alice in Wonderland" drug which makes adults feel they have shrunk back to child-size has been tested on patients at a British mental hospital, it was revealed today.

The weird drug also can snatch an adult back through time to relive childhood events "with extraordinary clarity," the British Journal of Mental Science said in announcing the discovery.

The drug, an extract of the ergot fungus which attacks grain, is expected to prove valuable in the diagnosis and relief of mental illnesses, which often have their origin in forgotten childhood experiences.

A married woman who was given the drug said she felt as if she had been shut up like a telescope.

"I wondered if I had gone small and was not the least surprised to see my arm and hand quite little, the size of that of a child of seven or eight," she said. "I don't remember feeling a different size, but when I looked I had shrunk."

China, U.K. Establish Normal Relationships

Churchill Announces Diplomatic Mission; First Western Power to Recognize Reds

Coming to Canada

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent today announced that Sir Winston Churchill, shown above as he was invested with the Order of the Garter, has every hope of visiting Ottawa following his trip to Washington, June 25. Although Churchill's visit to the U.S. has been described as "informal," officials in Washington have raised the possibility that he may address Congress in order to appeal for more teamwork between America and Britain.

LONDON (CP)—Communist China will shortly send her first diplomatic mission to London, Prime Minister Churchill announced today.

Churchill told the House of Commons the mission, first since the Chinese Communists came to power in 1949, will be headed by a charge d'affaires.

The announcement also was made by Peiping radio.

The envoy in charge of Britain's mission in Peiping, Sir Humphrey Trevelyan, has been trying to arrange for the establishment of full diplomatic relations between Britain and Communist China since he took the post last year.

Britain recognized the regime of Mao Tze-tung at the beginning of 1950.

LED TO ANNOUNCEMENT

Britain initiated discussions which led to today's announcement. When the Geneva conference opened, Foreign Secretary Eden summoned Trevelyan from Peiping and took him along.

Eden personally took up the matter of diplomatic relations with Communist China Premier Chou En-lai who is attending the Geneva conference.

Britain is the only one of the major western powers to have recognized the Chinese Communist government. Neither Canada nor the United States has taken such action.

Britain, however, has repeatedly emphasized its recognition of the Communist conquest of the Chinese mainland in no way implies approval of the Communist government or its policies.
